"Maternity" doesn't end when your Baby is born!

You're probably convinced of the importance of wearing a maternity support before the baby's born. It contributes so greatly to your comfort—your well-being.

But do you realize that when it's more important to wear a scientific support afterwards? For a post-natal support helps you return to normal health and strength... does wonders toward helping you get your figure back into shape.

That's why we carry a complete line of Camp maternity supports—both prenatal and postnatal... and provide a specially trained Camp fitter to serve you!

Pierce PTA Hears Talk on 'Why Children Like to Read'

Mrs. Lois T. Mace, director of school libraries for the Detroit board of education, spoke before the parents and teachers of Pierce school Thursday evening, Oct. 14, on "Why Children Like to Read."

"Books and reading are still important to children," Mrs. Mace stated. "In spite of the demands on their time and attention." She said that movies and the radio do not fill the need that reading satisfies. She also pointed out some of the reasons why children like to read. Children read for the information they get from books and often read far beyond their interest when they are really interested in a subject, according to the speaker.
