

Business Offered Extended Area Phone Service

Extended-area telephone service now is available on an optional basis to business customers in the Birmingham and Longcreeper zones, Walter R. Fauser, manager for the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, announced today.

The State Public Service Commission has issued an order permitting the company to charge the flat rate calling area of business customers who select the new service to include adjacent suburban zones and adjacent outstate exchanges. The plan is similar to the extended-area service already available to residence users.

Fauser said Birmingham business customers subscribing to extended-area flat rate service would be able initially to call without charge, Birmingham, Longcreeper, Royal Oak, and Southfield. Later Auburn Heights, Big Beaver, and Pontiac would be added to their calling area.

Higher Charges

Longcreeper business customers subscribing to the new service would have Birmingham, Commerce, Farmington, Longcreeper, Portiac, Southfield, and Walled Lake included in their extended-area flat rate calling area.

Business customers who desire the new service would pay higher monthly charges, Fauser said, but they no longer would pay a 50-cent charge to call the suburban and outstate points. Charges for extended-area service are based on rate schedules previously approved by the Commission, under which the number of telephones which the number of telephones that can be reached in the flat rate area determines the schedule of flat monthly rates to apply.

Can Call More Numbers

Birmingham business customers subscribing to the new service would have 67,000 telephones included in their calling area as compared with the 6,200 telephones in the flat rate calling area of customers here who wish to retain their present service.

Their monthly charges would advance from the $5.00 they are now paying to $8 immediately and later to $9 when Pontiac and Big Beaver are added to the extended calling area.

Longcreeper business customers subscribing to the new service would have 41,000 telephones included in their calling area as compared with the 1,100 telephones in the flat rate calling area of customers retaining their present service.

Additional Offering

They would pay $8.00 a month for the new service as compared with the $5.00 they now are paying.

Fauser said these rates would apply until such time as the Commission issues an order on the application for higher rates which the company filed last December.

He said the new service will be an additional offering and that customers who retain their present service will be able to do so without change in their monthly rates at this time.

While rates for business customers subscribing to the new service would be increased, Fauser said the company reports the new service would make possible substantial savings for those who make frequent calls to the areas included in the plan.

Honorable Mention

Joe Bachman of 32323 Lahser road, Bloomfield Township, won duplicate honorable mention in the Michigan-Ohio regional competition of the Fisher Boat Craftsmen's Guild. Joe received his award in the junior division.

Postal Examinations

August 20 is the date set for the examinations for the position of substitute clerk-carrier for the Birmingham postoffice. The announcement was made Wednesday morning by Bernard Fowler, acting postmaster here.
