Baptist Church Faces New Year Debt Free

Miss Nancy Olsen, representing the youngest member of the Birmingham First Baptist Church, has just touched a candle to the mortgage balance, amounting to $20,000 at a Victory Celebration in the Church Wednesday night of last week. From left to right are: David Anderson, representing the oldest member of the church and Fraser E. Pomeroy, chairman of the board of trustees. The mortgage burning climaxed a ten-week subscription drive, headed by Walter E. Turner. A dinner was served in the basement of the church and was attended by several hundred members and special guests.

Lathrup Church Group to Hear Industrial Relations Authority
 Don C. Rujo, industrial relations authority, will speak to the Lathrup Community Men's Club of the Townsite Community City Church at a dinner meeting Wednesday, Jan. 4.
 Director of industrial relations for Nash-Kelvinator Corp., Detroit, Rujo has a broad business experience in production, sales and management. After Army service in World War I, he was twice elected to the Indiana state legislature as senator, the youngest ever to hold the office.
 After several years as a production manager, he entered the sales field. He was an appliance distributor and also owned a chain of retail appliance stores. Later he was manager of Kelvinator's laundry equipment division and western sales manager.
 Rujo became Nash-Kelvinator's first director of industrial relations nine years ago and has won a wide reputation in this field.
