Girl Scouts at Adams

February may be the month of ice and snow, but a glance at the calendar of two PTA organizations in Birmingham shows it also to be the month of fairs with a Girl Scout booth an attraction at both schools.

First at Adams school, on Friday, Feb. 4, when an annual family frolic will include among its advertised entertainments a Brownie booth whose saleswomen will be the 16 Brownies of Troop 18.

Assistant leader Mrs. Terry Taylor and Mrs. Reginald Smith, mother of one of the Brownies, have given their assistance in the fashioning of bedding for doll beds. The proceeds from the booth are divided evenly between the troop and the school and these Brownies plan on spending their share to purchase a large play ball to be used by all Scout troops at Adams.

Quarton Fair Troop 22 of fourth grade Brownies will set up their booth at the Quarton school fair on Friday, Feb. 11 and will sell fudge, pot holders and lapel pins, all of their own creation.

As a further addition to the success of the Fair at Quarton two performances of "Hansel and Gretel" will be given by Troop 22. Mrs. Roderick McKenna, troop leader, announces that two completely different casts have been trained, one to appear at the afternoon performance, and the other in the evening. The entire proceeds from their efforts will be given to the PTA as sponsor of Girl Scouting in the school.
