Camera Club Guest

Harvey Croze

Harvey Croze, Cranbrook photographer, will direct members of the Bloomfield Hills Camera Club next Thursday evening in high speed photography. Croze, who has become noted for his photographs of dancers, has chosen this as an especially suitable subject, a group of modern dancers in costume. Club members will have an opportunity to study Croze's technique, as well as take pictures, themselves. Gregor Affleck, program director, announces that the meeting will be open to the public. The Greater Detroit Camera Club will be guests of the Hills group.

Elliott Kinney Heads Local Realtor Firm

Elliott S. Kinney, Chesterfield Rd., has been elected president of Snyder, Kinney and Bennett, Inc., well-known Birmingham realtors. At the annual meeting of the corporation held this week, M. E. Snyder, who has headed the company for many years, nominated Kinney to succeed him. Snyder, Clyde C. Bennett and Miss Mae Girvin were re-elected officers and directors. Kinney entered the real estate field in Birmingham with the firm in 1937 when it was known as Snyder, Buck and Bennett, Inc. In 1943 he became a stockholder and was elected an officer and director of the company whose name was changed, in 1947, to Snyder, Kinney and Bennett, Inc. For many years Kinney has been active in the work of the Birmingham Real Estate Board and was recently elected president of the Birmingham Realtors for 1949. In September of last year he was appointed to serve on the newly formed nine-man Birmingham City Planning Commission.

Dopesters Promise Action When Maples Meet Viking Team

Birmingham meets a potential threat as it faces Hazel Park in its third league game tomorrow night on the local court. Hazel Park has two returning lettermen, paced by Hugh McMaster, their high scoring center, who is six feet six inches tall. Last year, against Birmingham, he averaged for 18 of his team's 37 points. The Vikings have won two games and lost three. They defeated East Detroit 40-35, and Mt. Clemens 33-18, but lost to Gross Pointe 40-36, Van Dyke 40-28, and Ford 40-37. They are coached by Dan Lutku. Birmingham has won four and lost two.
