Flint Team Routed By Local Reserves

In a contest which turned into a complete rout, Birmingham's reserve basketball squad sank the Flint Beecher reserves 50-22 Tuesday, Jan. 4, on the conquerors' home floor. Scoring almost at will, the Maples were never threatened by the incoherent Buccaneers after the opening quarter when the victory seemed assured.

Detroit Court Team Downed by Cranemen

Cranbrook's basketball team took a 36-14 victory over the Detroit University School team playing on the latter's court Friday evening. High scorer for Cranbrook added 12 and 13 points, holding DUS to but six and four goals each.

News Notes from Vaughan School

Christmas vacation over, and all students returned only to find that due to trouble with the heating plant, the vacation had to be extended one week. Tuesday school resumed with the students beginning to think in terms of the examinations that soon would be closing the first semester.

Wednesday the Student Council held its ninth meeting of the year. Pres. Tom Trevelde commended the committee that had made the arrangements for the Christmas party and worked to make it so successful. Plans were discussed for the school carnival sponsored by the athletic department that is soon to be held.

Former Resident Is Television Pioneer

With the linking of television facilities of the east and middle-west, Birmingham people may soon be watching the efforts of a former resident who is pioneering in this field from a New York station. Mrs. Louise Winslow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Otterman, spent her childhood in Birmingham and attended the local schools. Her parents are now residents of Ladoga, Ohio.

She is a graduate student of Columbia University, in New York, and a teacher in Brooklyn College. Her television debut was made Nov. 27 over New York's WJZ with her program "At Home—and How." Mrs. Winslow is demonstrating household helps and shortcuts for women, from cooking through sewing and several other fields.

Mothers Feted

Mothers of Kingswood School eighth grade students will be guests of their daughters today for luncheon and visiting classes. Class officers in charge of the arrangements are president, Ann Scerrit; vice-president, Lillian Stoyadinovich; secretary, Lynn Romney and student council representative, Sue Boardley. The class advisor is Miss Winifred Hunt.

Scholarship Tests

The University of Michigan is announcing the annual Regents-Alumni scholarship examinations which will be held in March at the Eckham Memorial building at Detroit. Birmingham students who plan to take the examinations are Jerry Yates, Bob Webster, Ted Harper, Colin Campbell, and Carolyn Abbott.
