Miss Chubbuck Is Married In Christ Church Cranbrook

Wearing a gown of light ivory satin distinguished by Alencon lace which was applied on the bodice and around the wide square neckline, Miss Patricia Chubbuck became the bride of Richard Craig Friday, July 22 in Christ Church Cranbrook at a candlelight ceremony.

The couple, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Chubbuck of Lone Pine road and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman J. Craig of Orchard Lake road repeated their vows before the Rev. Lawrence W. Pearson at 8:30 o'clock.

The bride's wedding gown featured a panel of alencon lace extending down the front of the bouffant skirt to form an apron effect. The dress was fashioned with a lowered hip line from which swept a full circular train. Her full length veil was held by a cap of matching lace designed with a softly rolled edge of cut-out lace and she carried a white prayer book attached to an arrangement of white ivory roses.

As maid of honor, her sister, Alys Jeanne Chubbuck carried a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses and ivy and the bridesmaids, Miss Jill Craig, a sister of the bridegroom, Miss Barbara Fry of Bloomfield Hills, Miss Lady Stearns of Boulder, Col., and Miss Mari Forrest of New York carried lilac lace fans trimmed with clusters of tiny purple dahlias which were surrounded by tailored satin gardenias and ivy. All were dressed in similar gowns of white organdy over lilac taffeta cut with an off-shoulder neckline which was bordered with bands of embroidered organdy. The full skirts had diagonal bands of embroidered organdy worked into the skirt and crushed lilac taffeta formed the wide belts. Their headbands were made up of tiny purple dahlias tied with a bow of ivy in the back.

Bruce Craig served his brother as best man and ushering the guests to their places were Gordon Saunders, Jr., Tom Miner, George Duffield and James Holmes, all of Birmingham. The ring bearer was Peter Craig, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman J. Craig, Jr., and Mrs. Chubbuck chose a gown of light grey chiffon with an Alencon lace cape trimmed in iridescent sequins for the wedding and reception which followed at the Orchard Lake Country Club. Her hat was of rosettes of pink, mauve and tucked in the folds were pink and blue forget-me-nots. She carried a French beaded purse in the same delicate tones. Mrs. Craig was wearing a blue crepe gown and a hat in lilac and purple tones.

As the couple left on a trip to Quebec and New England, the new Mrs. Craig was in a soft grey wool suit with a checked jacket of gold and grey tones fastened with rhinestone buttons. The gold was repeated in her house and her accessories were grey and white.

Still Time to Enter Grinnell Foundation Scholarship Contest

There still is time for young Michigan singers between the ages of 18 and 22 to enter the $2,000 scholarship contest offered by Grinnell Foundation of Music in cooperation with the Philadelphia La Scala Opera Company, which holds its annual festival in Masonic Auditorium, from October 3 through 9.

Application forms and detailed information may be obtained by writing to Edith Tilton, chairman of the scholarship committee, 606 Fine Arts Building, Detroit 1.

The $2,000 award is to be used to finance a year of advanced conservatory under the personal supervision of Dr. A. Victor Pelosi and the Detroit Grand Opera Association for Philadelphia La Scala. The winner will be presented during the 1950 opera season in Detroit.

Applicants will be given a preliminary audition in their district if the number of candidates warrants it. Those chosen will then appear before a group of Detroit judges in September. Final test will be held in October during festival week—the winner to be decided by a jury of artists selected from the Philadelphia La Scala Opera cast.

Deadlines for receiving applications has been set for September 1. Entrants are requested to enclose a stamped, addressed envelope, legal size—and blanks will be mailed to them at once.
