The couple repeated their vows before the Rev. Robert L. DeWitt at a four o'clock ceremony. For her wedding the bride chose a gown of imported Swiss organza distinguished by a deep square neckline and short sleeves. The very full tiered skirt was edged with a garland of organza orange blossoms and fell into a circular train. The orange blossoms were also repeated at the edge of the sheer yoke. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was held in place by a Juliet cap of heirloom duchesse lace and full skirt. They wore mother at her wedding, and her bouquet was of white roses and larkspur.

Her attendants were gowned alike in dawn pink pique dresses designed with double square collars that were outlined in Irish lace and full skirt. They wore matching straw bonnets trimmed with pale blue velvet ribbons and their flowers were made up of blue delphinium and corn flowers. Susan Meek, sister of the bride and maid of honor, carried a bouquet of blue delphinium and pale pink roses. The bridesmaids included the Misses Anne Mock, Jane Dodds, Janet Zinser, Nan Giffenath and Mary Horne, all of Birmingham and Mary Laitner of Grosse Pointe.

short puffed sleeves edged in lace and a full skirt. Small white organza flowers were featured on her dress. Carrying a bouquet of pink roses and white delphinium, she wore a kind of matching flowers in her hair.

John Driver of Ann Arbor was best man and sealing the guests were John Fiskering, Ralph Sandt of Pleasant Ridge, Charles Booth of Detroit; Robert Beers of Royal Oak; Frederick Martindale of Farmington and Richard Pope of Royal Oak.

Theis-Woodruff Vows Solemnized In Christ Church Cranbrook Friday

Wearing a bridal gown of ivory satin, Miss Annette Noeide Woodruff was united in marriage to Albert Theis III in a four o'clock ceremony at which the Rev. Robert L. DeWitt officiated last Friday.

Mrs. Albert Theis III

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Woodruff carried a bouquet of rhubarb lilies, ivy and lilies of the valley. Her two tiered maine veil was held by a delicate rose pointe lace crown. Her gown was fashioned with long, traditionally pointed sleeves, a fitted bodice and a full skirt. A panel of lace was set into the full length train. The rose pointe was from the wedding gown of her grandmother.

Miss Prudence Saunders was her sister's maid of honor in a white dotted Swiss gown set over taffeta. A band of yellow carnations and white dotted Swiss over yellow carnations set off with ivory.

Miss Wilson is Married in Traditional Ivory Satin

Miss Virginia Mae Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alan F. Wilson of Eldorado avenue extended her hand in matrimony to Mr. Robert Horwitz, son of Mr. Irving B. Horwitz, Long Island, N. Y., before the Rev. Emil Kontz on June 18 at a four o'clock service in the First Baptist Church.

Carrying an arrangement of pearl gray roses, Miss Wilson was escorted to the altar by her father. A band of ivory satin finished with net ruching and seed pearls held her fingertip veil and her gown of ivory satin was fashioned with a round high collar which featured net applique. The sleeves were long, tiny buttons were set down the fitted bodice and a panel of net applique was at the waistline. The full skirt fell into a full train.

Mrs. Robert Horwitz

Mrs. Jeanne Renee Bouvet of Pennsylvania, a roommate of the bride at Oberlin College, as maid of honor was gowned in dusky rose taffeta and lace fashioned in a high collar and short sleeves. On her head she wore a matching halo hat and in her arms she carried blue carnations and white chrysanthemums.

The bridesmaids, Miss Hazel Bette of Birmingham; Miss Peggy Breslin of New York City and Mrs. Michael Sidlosky of Detroit wore in blue lace and taffeta dresses identical to the honor maid's, with matching halo hats. Their flowers were pink carnations and white mums.

Best man was the bridegroom's brother, Richard Horwitz and the ushers included Gerald K. Burns of Oberlin, Ohio, Ian Wilson and Michael Sidlosky both of Detroit.

Following a reception at the Wilson home, Mr. and Mrs. Horwitz left for northern Michigan, and for the first step of the journey, the bride was wearing a blue linen suit with egg shell and brown toned accessories. They will reside in Birmingham upon their return.
