

Miss Brodie Wears Ivory
Satin of Renaissance Style

Christ Church Cranbrook was the setting Saturday evening for the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Joan Brodie and William Lloyd Kemp, Jr. Before an altar banked with white flowers, the Rev. Robert DeWitt officiated at the eight o'clock service.

The bride was gowned in pale ivory satin of French Renaissance design. Imported Alencon lace was applied in a border around the deep square illusion yoke over the shoulders and formed a panel down the bodice fashioned with a drop waist. A panel of matching lace extended down the front of the full skirt which swept into a cascaded train. A halo of cut-out Alencon lace held her finger-tip veil of silk tulle and she carried a cascade arrangement of white gardenias.

Mrs. William Kemp, Jr.

Mrs. Dale W. Zimmerman of New Baltimore was matron of honor and the bridesmaids included Miss Katherine Kemp of Birmingham, Catherine Cowan of Grosse Pointe, Miss Jean Buss of Battle Creek and Miss Nancy Johnson of Chicago. The honor attendant wore a gown of heavenly blue sheer dotted marquisette and the maid of honor in dawn pink dresses of the same material. All of the attendants' dresses were designed with wide luteous necklines and short sleeves piped in white pique. Tiny pique buttons were set down the fitted bodices over bouffant skirts. Their flowers were colonial arrangements of pink rosebuds and on their heads were ivy Juliet caps trimmed with clusters of rosebuds.

Richard Cushman of Birmingham was best man and exceeding the guests to their places were James Van Dusen, James Fox and Douglas Most, all of Birmingham, and Kenneth Goerke of Dearborn. Dr. and Mrs. W. Lloyd Kemp of Yarmouth road are the parents of the bridegroom and the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Brodie of Pontiac.

For the classic and following reception held at the Orchard Lake Country Club, Mrs. Brodie wore a gown of hyacinth blue chiffon with a matching hat and accessories. An orchid corsage was pinned to her shoulder. Mrs. Kemp was in a grey lace gown with a
