Howarth Park to Be Fenced

Howarth Memorial Park, at Cummings and Emmons, is going to be fenced shortly to prevent youngsters from dashing out into the streets from the playground. Before the city commission approved the last $1,600 from this year's contingent fund to pay for the fence, Commissioner Milton F. Mallered declared: "This is one of the city's most dangerous areas—so many youngsters play here that it is a wonder that there haven't been serious accidents. The fence will eliminate about 95 per cent of the running into the street."
