Miss Marilyn Harris Becomes Bride of William C. Gilman

At Kirk in the Hills Church before an altar backed with white larkspur, carnations and gladioli, Miss Marilyn Ruth Harris, daughter of Mrs. Harland Derwood Harris of Euclid avenue and the late Grosse Pointe and Alex Riker of Pontiac.

For the ceremony Mrs. Harris wore a dusty pink crepe and lace dress with a bolero jacket, a navy-toned hat accented with dusty rose and navy accessories. Pink spray orchids were pinned to her bag. The bridegroom's mother was in grey crepe with inserts of gray lace with which she wore an Alice blue hat and navy accessories. Her flowers were white orchids.

After the wedding supper for the immediate families, out-of-town guests and the wedding party at the Orchard Lake Country Club, Mrs. Gilman selected for a major trip south a peacock shantung suit with natural straw accessories.

Mrs. William Gilman

Mr. Harris became the bride of William Carpenter Gilman. He is the son of Mrs. Maud Schuman Gilman of Dorchester road and Mr. Max M. Gilman of Los Angeles. Officiating at the Saturday afternoon nuptials was the Rev. Leslie A. Bechtel with the Rev. Glen Harris assisting.

The bride, who was escorted to the altar by her brother, Harland, was wearing a gown of ivory duchesse satin. Embroidered in styling of a court gown, the pointed bodice was designed with a drop shoulder decolletage filled with illusion yoke and was outlined with a border of seed pearls in a scroll motif and a fold of satin in bertha fashion. The sleeves, pointed over the wrists were also edged with the pearl embroidery and the full skirt fell into a wide circular train. Her groom wore a tuxedo with a white boutonniere and a white orchid.

The attendants were gowned in Viennese waltz dresses of blossom white faille. Capulet collars in double folds covered the shoulders of the molded bodices and their wide skirts were caught into a Polonaise drape with butterfly bow bustles accenting the back detail. Mrs. James McNabb of Urbana, Ill., served as matron of honor and carried a cascading bouquet of salmon pink geraniums and variegated ivy with a matching band in her hair. Bridesmaids were Barbara Breukert of Franklin and Mary Ann Gilman, a sister of the bridegroom, who carried cascading bouquets of pink geraniums and variegated ivy with identical bands in their hair.

Frederic S. Gilman acted as his brother's best man and the ushers were Robert E. Harris, brother of the bride; Herbert Bartlett of
