Sail For Europe Following Garden Wedding Tuesday

Following a garden wedding on Tuesday at four o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Finley Robinson started out on a wedding trip to Europe. Sailing on the New Amsterdam on July 1, they will visit Norway, Sweden, Denmark, France and Italy. For traveling, Mrs. Robinson selected a dove grey silk suit with a cocoa brown hat and matching accessories. She is the former Sarah Ewell Winston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barry L. Winston of Aspen road and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell B. Robinson of Calvert avenue, Detroit.

White roses and white lilies predominated in the Winston's garden for the wedding ceremony and throughout the house, madonna lilies and garlands of roses were used for the decorative motif.

The bride was in white organza frosted with a tily of the valley design. The gown was fashioned with a deep rolled neckline, a tight bodice and full skirt of ankle length. She wore mitta and a headpiece of the same material and from her cap fell a shoulder-length veil of illusion. In her arms she carried lily of the valley and white spray orchids.

Miss Ernestine Winston was her sister's maid of honor in a pale pink organza dress which featured white eyelet embroidery. There was a deep hem of white and beige organza and a diminutive matching cap. As bridesmaids, the Misses Lydia and Josephine Kothman were in white ankle length Swiss with blue polka dots. Their flower were blue carnations and dolphinias while Miss Winston carried pink roses.

Best man was Joseph Warner and the ushers were Harry L. Winston, Jr. and Bill Berman. To see her daughter married.

Mrs. Elliot Robinson

Mrs. Winston wore a dahlia street length gown with a matching hat and beige orbital corsage. Mrs. Robinson chose a beige shantung ankle length dress with a matching coat of feathers. Her flowers were also beige orchids. The couple will make their home in Birmingham.

Mrs. David F. Ross

Wearing velvet brocaded marquisette over white silk, Miss Elizabeth Ann Bloomstrom became the bride of David Francis Ross Saturday at four o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Bloomstrom on Pilgrim road. Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Ross of Barton Hills, Ann Arbor are the bridegroom's parents. Dr. Ralph D. Kearns of Flint, Mich., who had married Mr. and Mrs. Bloomstrom, was the officiating clergyman at the service.

The bride wore her mother's fingertip veil of silk illusion and carried white roses and staphylococci. Her dress was designed with long, pointed sleeves, a square yoke of plain marquisette with a round neckline bordered in marquisette braids. The waist was long with a bustle effect in back with the full skirt just sweeping the floor.

A sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. William T. Mulloy of Laransie, Wyo., was matron of honor; Miss Barbara Black of Birmingham was the honor maid and Mary Kathleen Mulloy of Laransie, niece of the bridegroom was flower girl. Miss Black and Mrs. Mulloy were dressed in lime green marquisette with wide ribbon sashes of yellow organza. They carried daisies and ivy. Matching flowers were used in their hair.

James N. Ross, a brother, was best man and escorting guests to their places were John H. Bloomstrom and William T. Mulloy, Jr. For her daughter's marriage, Mrs. Bloomstrom wore a street length powder blue silk. Mrs. Ross was in a street length sheer dress with a cocoa shade.

For traveling to a spot in northern Michigan, the new Mrs. Ross chose a lilac and white print silk dress with a lilac lining. White accessories completed her ensemble.

After July 19, they will be at home in Cambridge, Mass.

Will-O-Way to Open Season With a Comedy "The Milky Way" Next Week

Will-O-Way Playhouse, Bloomfield Hills, opens its summer season of comedies July 5, presenting "The Milky Way" featuring Robert Bryson in the role made famous by Danny Kaye in the film version, "The Kid From Brooklyn".

As in past seasons, the made-over-lasno theatre will have as its director William Merrill who will produce a summer-long series of plays with a change in the bill every two weeks.

Casting is being completed for "The Milky Way" which describes the riotous story of the "Milquetoast" milkman who is credited with having knocked out the middleweight boxing champion in a street brawl. The insignificant milkman, played by Bryson, finds himself bound by circumstances on in the role of a fatigued giant with his supposed prowess in the ring eventually leading to a championship bout.

USO TOUR
Robert Bryson is not a newcomer to his part in the play, having performed the leading role in "The Milky Way" for one year on tour with the U.S.O. during the war. Bryson's troupe covered 15,000 air miles, stopping to perform the comedy at such faraway places as the Aleutian Islands, Alaska and Hawaii. His last local appearance was in "Ballot Box" at Will-O-Way last season, before which Detroiters saw him in "The Play's The Thing". Bryson also appears at Will-O-Way in the 1940 opening performance of "Room Service".

Having started his career some years ago at the Provincetown Playhouse, Bryson has appeared in over 85 plays in stock and on radio, including a circuit with "The Drunkard". During this time he has been cast with Dan Dailey, Uke Chase, James Dunn, Karen Morley and other stars.

The Will-O-Way Playhouse, which is located on West Long Lake road near Telegraph road in Bloomfield Hills, is a charming "straw hat" theatre occupying the Merrittville's air cooled apple barn and seats approximately 300 customers. The season will officially open for the public on July 5, the first performance on July 5 being an invitation one to the press. Technical direction is in the hands of Harold W. Meier. Kenneth Turner is again business manager.
