Cranbrook's Entries Take Many Prizes in Detroit Arts and Crafts Exhibit

At the 1949 exhibition for Michigan Artist Craftsmen currently at the Detroit Institute of Arts, work of Cranbrook faculty and students has been included in the show.

In the ceramic section, Majja Grosell, instructor at the Cranbrook Academy of Art, was awarded the Mrs. Lillian Henkel Haas prize of $50.00 for the best examples of ceramic work. Murray Douglas, art instructor at Brookside School, is showing 11 g ceramic pieces at the Cranbrook Academy of Art.

Honorable mention was received by J. P. Abernathy and Maria Stueland. Former students Rachel Buegelen, Marietta Hippie and Rodha Lopez have work on exhibit.

Wine Textile Prize
Mrs. Lillian Holm, weaving instructor at Kingswood School won the Mrs. George Kamperman prize of $50.00 for her dress and suit materials in the textile class. Art academy student, Kenneth Peabody, received an honorable mention and the other student exhibitors are Doris Coulter, Howard Heath, Estelle Heller, Gald Kidd, Matt Kahn, Yvonne Palmer, Ellen Siegel, Lyseth Wallace, Lydia Weyl and Sally Winick.

Metalwork pieces by Frederick J. Dockstader of the Cranbrook faculty, Luella Schroeder of the Cranbrook Institute of Science, art academy students Matt Kahn, William Whitney and Carol Rowland and Charlotte Whitney are shown. Work of Marshall Frederick, formerly of Cranbrook, is also on exhibition.

In the wood section, bowls are exhibited by Julia Pearl and Matt Kahn and Azalea Thorpe is showing bowls and a plate.

It Says Here . . .

Dick Grimm entertained the members of the fencing club at an open house Sunday afternoon, to introduce club members to Be-la de Tuscan, fencing champion.

Last Saturday Sapphire club had a date meeting at Fran Ritter's. Some of the couples there were Joan Reing, Howard Liverance; Norma Lee Kass; Jim Ludwig; Nancy Chena, Ken Babcock; Fran Ritter, and Don Lundquist.

The Scriblers' club is meeting tonight at the Community House. This week's assignment is a short short story with a surprising ending.

Two other interest clubs had meetings last week. Keynotes gathered at Janet Williams' Thursday night and the Photo Guild met at George Weinhold's on Wednesday.

"Spring Serenade", KST dance, will be given Saturday night. Committee heads busily working to prepare for the dance are Dick Reilly, general chairman, Jim Patterson, decorations and Ken Babcock, publicity.

School Notes from Big Beaver.

Donald Piotrowski took first prize in the oratorical declamation division of the Big Beaver school speech contest held last Thursday.

His topic was "Will the Comic Beginnings Have a Tragic Ending?" Donna Losey, speaking on "The Greater Gift", placed second.

In the dramatic declamation division, first prize went to Doralee Spencer, whose subject was "Yellow Wallpaper." Jackie Tolbert placed second with "Mickey's Marker".

These four will compete in the district contest which will be held April 12 in the Big Beaver Methodist church. Miss Earla Smith, district chairman will announce the judges of the contest at a later date. The competing schools will be Clawson, Walled Lake, Farmington and Big Beaver.

The Big Beaver winner of the Detroit News Spelling Bee held Friday, March 18, was Barbara Snell, eighth grade. Runner-up was Mary Lou Kitchner. The winning word was "bobble".

We Heard It Said By:
Dr. John Lee, dean of Wayne University's graduate school, in a talk before the Birmingham Rotary Club: "While I was in charge of Wayne's bureau of teacher placement, I always tried to get our superior teacher candidates to take a position with the Birmingham public schools. We recognized the fine facilities here—educational, cultural and social. This is indeed a fine compliment to your superintendent, your school board and your teaching staffs."
