BIRMINGHAM VETERANS NEWS

Compiled from Various State and National Veterans Information Centers

The Columbus (Ohio) District Office of the Veterans Administration which handles service life insurance accounts for Michigan-Ohio-Kentucky veterans of World War II, today reminded ex-service men that a physical examination is required for reinstatement of National Service Life Insurance which has been lapsed for more than three months. VA insurance officials pointed out that there are two methods of reinstating lapsed "GI" insurance: 1. For term insurance that has been lapsed for less than three months, and if the veteran's health is as good as it was on the date his last premium was due, it is only necessary to complete an application form and pay two monthly premiums. On permanent (converted) insurance, all back premiums plus interest must be paid. 2. A physical examination is required for reinstatement of all insurance that has been lapsed for more than 90 days. If a veteran's insurance has been lapsed for less than 90 days and he cannot certify to continued good health, a physical examination is also required. Examinations can be arranged at VA outpatient clinics or through a private physician.

Harold C. Goodrich, BTG, USN, recruiter in charge of the Navy Recruiting Station in the Post Office in Pontiac, announced today that openings are available for men who wish to enlist for one year in the U.S. Navy. Qualifications for the one year enlistment are the same as for the rest of the Navy except that it is limited to 18 years of age at the completion of their one year enlistment. The boys may re-enlist for two or more years, join the organized reserve for four years, or join the inactive reserve for six years.

Chief Goodrich also has a limited number of openings for high school graduates who can qualify for U.S. Navy trade schools. On completion of their recruit training they receive specialized Navy training.

Further information may be obtained from the local Navy Recruiter at 110 W. Fifth Street, Royal Oak.

Naval Air Station, Grosse Ile, has openings now for enlisted veterans or non-veterans who are interested in active duty assignments in the Naval Air Reserve. Seaman recruits available can learn a trade and earn Navy pay at the same time while on duty at the base. Rated men, particularly storekeepers, hostess' mates and yeoman, are also needed at stations.

For further information, call or visit the Naval Air Station, Grosse Ile.

Forty per cent of World War II veterans enrolled in schools and colleges under the G. Bill are preparing for careers in only three fields—agriculture, business and engineering.

Of the veterans engaged in on-the-job training, forty per cent also are learning to fill positions in three fields—mechanics and repairmen, managerial occupations, and jobs in the construction trades.

Several thousand United States residents who served in the Canadian Armed forces during World War II have not applied for benefits provided by the Canadian Government, according to the Canadian Department of Veterans Affairs.

These benefits are only for World War II service and consist of war service gratuities and re-establishment credit. Gratuities amount to $7.50 for each 30 days of service, with an additional 25 cents for each day overseas plus seven days pay and allowances of rank for each six months of overseas service.

Re-establishment credit consists of $7.50 for each 30 days of service, with an additional 25 cents for each day overseas. This service is not given to the veteran but is paid out by the Department of Veterans Affairs in Canada on the veteran's behalf for specific purposes. Eligible veterans now living in the United States may use this re-establishment credit only for the purchase of veterans' insurance in Canada.

Eligible veterans who have not already received their war service gratuity or re-establishment credit from the Canadian Government, should contact the Canadian Department of Veterans Affairs, at Ottawa, Canada.

Maples Hounded by Friday the 13th, Lose Double Header

By Jim Hogan

Friday the 13th proved to be the well known jinx for the Birmingham baseball team as it dropped both ends of a double-header with East Detroit 6-1 and 9-8.

The only Birmingham run in the first game was scored by Lucius Jackson on a single by Clay Joyce.

In the second game the local nine scored eight runs on 11 hits, but again the Shamrocks hurled the Maples back with nine runs on nine hits.

Chuck Ganley was charged with the loss in the first game and Ed Smith dropped the second. Clay Joyce relieved Smith but was unable to turn the game into a victory.

New Directors Join Cranbrook's Summer Theatre School Staff

Helen Buliga, assistant director of the Wayne University Theatre and Patricia Fearnside, international swimmer and specialist in synchronized swimming and water ballet, have joined the staff of Cranbrook's theatre school, according to Carl G. Wonnberger, director. Miss Buliga, a veteran instructor at Wayne, has done much to assist in the development of Wayne's famed Circular Theatre. She will join Maurice Yens in the direction of the new college-age group planned for the theatre school.

Miss Fearnside, student of the celebrated Rose Wadon of St. Clair, is a member of Green Splash, honorary swimming society at Michigan State and a competitor in AAU and international meets. In recent international competition, Miss Fearnside and her partner placed second.

At Cranbrook, she will develop a class in synchronized swimming and will present a public water ballet in Jonah pool at Cranbrook in July. "Because of advanced techniques," according to Miss Fearnside, "it is no longer necessary to be a good swimmer to start work in synchronized swimming." All theatre school members will be accepted.

Returning members of the theatre school staff are Maurice Yens, Dana Ebor, Mary Quinn, Mary Mahon, David Lockin, Marion Nevill Kirk and Alice Shaw.
