

Television Show On United Nations Arranged by League

The Birmingham League of Women Voters has arranged, with the cooperation of Grinnell's, for the community the opportunity to view the UN in action on the television screen every weekday for the next three weeks from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m.

The balcony of Grinnell's will be open to the public for this telecast series. In addition, the general assembly sessions may be viewed in the Ranch Room of the Community House between 3:00 and 3:30 each day.

Mrs. Arthur Lougee will be hostess tomorrow morning from 11 to 11 in Grinnell's for the official opening at which UN literature and information will be offered by the League. The public is invited.

Described as the most extensive nationwide public television in the history of either television or radio, the Ford Motor Company will sponsor this daily telecast through Dec. 5 over the Columbia Broadcasting System TV network.

Carlos P. Romulo, president of the UN General Assembly, headed the project as an opportunity for millions of persons to see the international group in session and to hear what goes on.

Organizations wishing to see the program as a group are asked to notify James Fitzsimons, manager, a day in advance.

Each Tuesday at 5 p.m. is the deadline for news, society, classified and display ads.

Ruth Shain Class Meets Tuesday

The Ruth Shain International Affair Class when it meets next Tuesday, Nov. 22 at 10:00 a.m. in the Community House, will discuss the final session of the Herold-Tribune Forum and Television Programs and speakers dealing with the political personalities and issues of both Democrat and Republican parties frankly and openly.

Programs and speakers dealing with the political personalities and issues of both Democrat and Republican parties frankly and openly will be featured.

Irrespective of their own personal views, the arguments presented by the democratic personnel will be reviewed by Mrs. Opal Field, Mrs. Roy Robinson and Mrs. D. H. Craddock. They will give the points laid out by Senator Hubert Humphrey, Jr., Representative Howard W. Smith, Senator Frank P. Graham, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson and Senator-elect Herbert Lehman.

Speaking on the Republican platform will be Mrs. Loren Blunt, Mrs. Leland Bunyan, Mrs. A. D. Douglas who will report speeches by Senator Cabot Lodge, Alexander M. Rankin, national director of Republican Youth and Philip Willis, a member of the state legislature, Senator Margaret Chase Smith and interim-Senator John Foster Dulles.

The hour will be concluded with a discussion of the Forum's topic, "A Citizen's Responsibility—What Part in the Field of Political Activity do the Non-Partisan Groups Play?"

The meeting is open to the public.

Improvement Assn. Hears Supervisor Discuss Protection

The annual fall dinner of the Greenfield-Lovery Improvement association was held Saturday in the Birmingham Community House with over 100 guests present.

This year the entertainment was a little out of the ordinary, as it was carried on instead of a short program after the dinner. Ken Hoover, who is in charge of the entertainment arranged to have Mr. Simons, manager of the Royal Oak Grill, not only come out to play dinner music, but also to bring along a Hammond organ.

Otto Brown directed the Birmingham Male chorus in a few numbers with the accompaniment of Mrs. John B. Shoemaker.

Torey Spuitwick, a pantomime artist and magician, also entertained.

The Detroit Little Symphony; A Success Story Told in Music

A symphony doesn't necessarily require a musician's technical knowledge to be enjoyed. That's a common fallacy of ours these days—that we've got to be "long hairs" or something. Maybe that's why some people have been rather timorous when they've asked, "Just exactly what is the Little Symphony?"

To anyone who can only pound out a hat chorus of "Chopsticks," it's a known fact that it is possible to push a key and have music come out is a most satisfactory and enjoyable form of recreation, whether classical or "pop."

That's why, last spring, 30 members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra joined together just for the pleasure of playing good music with one another. What they performed was written for chamber orchestra and to a large extent, unfamiliar works to most audiences.

When they started playing together, they little suspected that the big symphony would soon be the object of their devotion and admiration. And when this finally happened, the 30 entered a more intensified unit and called themselves the Little Symphony.

Board of Appeals Asks Reconsideration of Ban on Nurseries

The city's board of appeals has asked the city commission to reconsider an amendment to the zoning ordinance to permit the operation of small nursery schools in single residence areas.

City commissioners referred the communication to the city plan commission, which is making a city-wide zoning study.

Eccentric classifieds SELL!

"From time to time, this board is confronted with requests for permission to operate a small nursery school of approximately five children in these residential areas," the board's letter read.

City commissioners referred the communication to the city plan commission, which is making a city-wide zoning study.

WITH THE Collegians

Birmingham students enrolled at Indiana University this semester include James Radford Anderson and JoAnn Louise Limp.

J. Ronald Jones of Lauder road was formally initiated into the Michigan Alpha chapter of Tau Beta Pi at Michigan State College Nov. 10. Tau Beta Pi is an engineering society honoring outstanding students in the engineering fields. Jones also was honored last year by being initiated into the Scabbard and Blade which occupies a similar position for military students. He is in his senior year in civil engineering.

Miss Mary Mahon, a Birmingham junior, took the part of the fairy godmother in the Michigan State College Children's Theatre group production of "Cinderella" on Nov. 12 in the West Junior high school in Lansing.

Cecile Woodhouse of Amberst road, a freshman at Duke University, has recently been pledged to Pi Beta Phi sorority.

Vacancy Filled

Claude E. Whipple, president, called the meeting to order and accepted, brought up the main business.

Ken Hoover was elected to fill the vacancy in subdivision 1 left open by William White resigned to business.

Supervisor Dudley Frame, of Southfield township, brought the report up-to-date on the fire and police protection they now have. He suggested that each family visit the fire and police stations over the equipment, talk with the personnel and find out just what they have to work with. To the surprise of many, Frame informed the group that they paid for two full-time police officers. The importance would be taken care of.

Officers Presented

The new officers of the association who were elected by the board of directors, were introduced.

They are: President, Claude E. Whipple; vice-president, Claude E. Whipple; secretary, Arthur P. Lafon and recording secretary, Jean Giblin.

The directors are William Collins, Al Joldersma, Art Lafon, Ken Hoover, Claude Sharp and Phil Sultz for Subdivision 3 and Claude Whipple for Subdivision 5.

The committee chairman this year are: Membership, Art Lafon; building and restrictions, Bill Collins and Claude Sharp; recreation and entertainment, Al Joldersma, maintenance and upkeep, Larry Sultz; political action, Claude Whipple and newscaster, Claude Whipple.

It was announced that the board of directors meet the first Wednesday of each month, and anyone with a problem or without one can attend these meetings.

Children's Concerts

Mrs. Robert Graham of Bloomfield Hills attended a luncheon Monday given by Mrs. Fred T. Murphy at the Detroit Club. In addition, it was announced that the Detroit Symphony will present a total of eight children's concerts instead of just four, the first of which will be held on Dec. 15 in the Masonic Temple.

Trained Animals

Fair at PTA

An educated mule, a troupe of trained dogs and a magician will team up to provide hours of fun for young and old alike at the PTA Fair tomorrow night, Nov. 18.

Ed Codner, chairman of the variety show and co-chairman along with Mrs. Edith Rober, of the entire Fair, has announced that the entertainment selected for the big variety show tops that of previous years by a big margin.

"This year we're fortunate in being able to get the noted clown, Carl Romig, and his educated mule, Oran," Ed stated. "In addition we've got Betty Fanchon with her famous dog act, five canines that can do tricks you've got to see to believe."

"And to mystify our audience we've had the boys and girls services of Alexander, the Great, a magician of considerable repute. All in all, it's sure to be an hour's entertainment that will be hard to beat."

The variety show will provide the climax to five hours of fun for the whole family. The fair starts off with an hour for the young students. At 4:00 p.m. the doors will be thrown open to the public. There will be a wide variety of booths—baked goods, white elephants, gifts, handwork, canned goods, and plants for the adults.

There will be fish ponds, the Apron of a Thousand Pockets, fortune tellers, boy activities, rooms, and balloons for the children. For the whole family, there will be a snack bar serving in the cafeteria serving soup, hot dog pie, ice cream, coffee and milk.

The grand variety show starts at 8:00 p.m. You can get your tickets at the Fair.

Lathrup Village Women's Club

LATHRUP VILLAGE — Mrs. Robert Vint, treasurer of the Lathrup Village Women's Club has announced the organization has $550.32 on hand and Mrs. Fred Watson, membership chairman presented two new members, Mrs. Albert McLaren and Mrs. A. D. Vuidea.

The house management announced the purchase of 40 cups and saucers. Mrs. Everett Nelson, Girl Scout leader has announced that four Scout troops are working on a Christmas project.

Mrs. Thomas Jackson in charge of the Book Club is taking names of members and the books they wish to purchase through the Women's club. The Post war committee, headed by Mrs. George Burnham, took up a collection at the meeting. The money will be used for hospitalized veterans Christmas gifts. It was announced that four Scout troops are working on a Christmas project. The need for new bedside radios is great as the present ones have become obsolete. Also, Christmas tree ornaments would be appreciated.

The president, Mrs. Arthur Mitchell, announced that the youth dances formerly held in the House in the Woods would be discontinued in favor of Southfield Township Recreation dances held every Friday night in the Annie Lathrup school.
