Local Telephone Business Office to Move Into New Building This Weekend

Walter B. Fauser, manager here for Michigan Bell, makes a last tour of inspection of the company's new building before ordering the public business office moved into the structure.

The exterior of the new building is of salmon-colored brick and limestone. The brick is laid in a unique pattern duplicated on only one other building in the country, a new hotel in Cincinnati. The second-floor overhang permits extensive landscaping.

Only the business office will be occupied at this time, the cutover to dial not scheduled until next summer. However, workmen this week began preparing the second floor for installation of dial equipment. (See story on Page One, Part One.)

Telephone customers will pay bills at this cashier's desk when Michigan Bell moves into its new building at 160 Martin this weekend. John Titmus (left) and Miss Ruth Setzer, of the company, demonstrate the convenient height of the desk. The floor of this section of the new building is of slate flagstone. Walls are of end-grain cypress.

Cranbrook Notes Faculty Changes

The fall term opens at Brookside School Cranbrook and at Cranbrook school on Wednesday, September 21. New boys entering Cranbrook school register on Monday and returning students register on Tuesday. All students at Kingswood School Cranbrook register on Monday and classes begin at 8:30 on Tuesday, with Janice Wessinger in charge of the reception committee for the school opening.

New faculty members at Cranbrook School are Emory H. Niles, Jr., of Baltimore, Md., Harvard, A.B. 1944 and member of the Harvard Dramatic Club, who will teach mathematics; Robert L. Stevenson, Foxboro, Mass., arts and crafts instructor who received his B.A. from Williams College in 1948 after combat duty with the Marine Corps in the Pacific Area. He was a member of the Cap and Bells Dramatic society, college yearbook and newspaper staff and taught at Eaglebrook School. John R. Roderick of Seattle, the football coach is a history instructor. He attended the University of Washington and Westminster College receiving his B.A. from Yale in 1948. He was a member of Phi Gamma Delta, the Torch honor society and Berzelius and won a Major Y in football. Filling the newly created post of alumni secretary at Cranbrook is Carlston P. McLain, Jr. He graduated from Cranbrook with the class of '43 and from Princeton with an A.B. in 1949, his college career having been interrupted by a period of service in the Army Air Force. At Princeton, he was a member of the 150 lb. crew which represented the United States in the Henley Regatta. He was also interested in debating and radio work. During 1948, he appeared in the Triangle Show.

Kingswood Faculty
Half the Kingswood school boarding students are from outside and reside in Alabama, California, Connecticut, Florida, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Ohio, Nebraska, Pennsylvania, New York and Wisconsin. Four additions have been made to the Kingswood faculty. Miss Helen Phillips who received an A.B. from Wellesley and did graduate work at University of California, Harvard, Columbia. The

From Bay City, Miss Elizabeth Corryell who attended Sweetbriar College and the Katherine Gibbs Secretarial school, will augment the office staff.

To tap oil reserves believed to exist at hitherto unexplored depths in the earth, a big American company has perfected a diesel-powered oil drilling rig said to be the most powerful ever built. Powered by three turbo-supercharged diesel motors, the drill is expected to drive 5-inch wells at least 16,000 feet.

Fabrics, Jewelry in Cranbrook Exhibit Shown This Month

Until September 22, the museum of the Cranbrook Academy of Art will exhibit the Ohio Print Makers exhibition and Modern Jewelry under $50.00. Entries from the American Institute of Decorators competition will be on view through September 24.

Fabrics, wall coverings, furniture, lighting and floor coverings are included in the home furnishings design exhibition which was part of an over-all program planned to stimulate public interest in decorative art and to increase the availability of good design. A former Cranbrook Academy of Art student, Ruth Adler of Detroit, received the printed fabric award.

Samuel E. Tushingham of Detroit was awarded an honorable mention in the fabric division and Pusan de Swanson of Bloomfield Hills received an honorable mention in the lighting section. Euro Santinori's chair is among the work shown from 60 artists. Entries in the film interior sets competition complete this exhibition.

Variety and individuality highlight the modern jewelry collection being circulated by the American Federation of Arts, Washington. Various materials such as aluminum, brass, copper, plastic and ceramics are shown while in other pieces materials are freely combined—silver and ebony, silver and leather, plastics and metals.

Work of Ohio etchers, block printers and lithographers in black and white or color complete the Cranbrook Museum of Art September lower gallery exhibitions. Museum hours are from 2 to 5 daily, except Mondays.

Resident Commends City for Settling Eion Road Dust

Continually subjected to innumerable "scraps" concerning city service, city commissioners are always surprised—but pleasantly so—when a resident writes in to compliment the city for some particular action.

The most recent of these rare letter writers is F. W. Bredt, Jr., 2157 Yorkshire, who has informed the city commissioner: "When a job is well done, I believe in giving praise to the party responsible. Therefore, I wish to take this opportunity to compliment each and every one of you for the prompt and efficient action taken in correcting the Eion road dust situation. Now life is worth living in our new home."

City Commissioner Garland D. Tait suggested that the commission frame this letter, along with others of like character received in the past, and publicly display them at the Municipal Building.

"I don't believe we'd use up too much wall space by so doing," he smiled.

Almost 80% of 322 Naval Reserve Training Centers planned for construction by 1950 are completed.
