Miss McDonald is Married Saturday to W. W. Dupler

The Rev. Robert L. DeWitt officiated at the marriage ceremony which united Miss Patricia Press McDonald, daughter of Mrs. James McDonald of St. Catherine's, Ontario, and niece of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Moyer of Buckhorn road, and William W. Dupler, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Dupler of Ashland, Ohio, when the couple were married Saturday at 4:30 o'clock in Christ Church Cranbrook.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Carl W. Moyer, the bride was gown in white satin which was fashioned with an off-shoulder neckline and illusion yoke highlighted with a lace berth. Lace trimmed the bouffant skirt and her illusion veil of fingertip length was held by a matching lace helmet. Her bridal bouquet was made up of gardenias and stephanotis.

Her sister, Miss Susan McDonald of St. Catherine's was maid of honor and Miss Nancy Fordham of New York City served as bridesmaid. Both were dressed alike in green brocade with matching hats which featured ostrich plumes. Miss McDonald carried yellow gladioli and chrysanthemums and Miss Fordham's flowers were yellow gladioli and bronze mums. Both bouquets were arranged in a semi-colonial style.

Dean Hanink and Lee Aldinger, both of Detroit and William Meagher of Birmingham were the ushers and Howard Grange of Darlington, Wis., served as best man.

A reception followed at the Orchard Lake Country Club. Mrs. McDonald's ensemble was a rose crepe dress with a teal blue hat and orchid corsage. Mrs. Dupler was in navy with white accessories.
