

YMCA Clubs Review 1949 Sports Parade

One of the program features of the Birmingham YMCA Gra-Y, Junior Hi-Y, and Junior Hi-Y clubs for the past week has been a review of the booklet, "Sports Show for 1949".

The booklet contains many of the sports oddities and records which were written up in sports articles this past year, or given as human interest stories by radio announcers on their play-by-play account of sports events. It is put out by a leading sporting goods firm and is featured by many cartoons and pen sketches.

Ralph Miller of the Quanton Junior Hi-Y pointed out that the Detroit Tigers were the victims of the last perfect no-hit game pitched April 30, 1932 by Charley Robertson of the Chicago White Sox. In this game Robertson did not allow a runner to reach first base.

Mindful of Michigan university's game with Stanford this coming Saturday, Richard Ward of the Adams School Gra-Y pointed out to his fellow members that Jim Lawson, captain of the 1924 Stanford Rose Bowl team, was an authentic inter-collegiate All-American end, yet he never scored a touchdown in his collegiate career.

The boys of all clubs were divided into teams to compete against each other in sports quiz programs. Can't you boys were awarded to the lucky winners.

Gra-Y and Junior Hi-Y clubs are meeting at Adams, Quanton, Pierce, Barum, Walnut Lake, Bloomfield Village and Poppletton Schools. Youngsters of grade school age are invited to attend.

The Blue Winners

The Red Shirts came out on the short end of an 8-0 score when they met their Blue opponents on the Detroit Polo club field Sunday. The victors saw Bill Smith, Al Poole (C) and Al Chick out-ride and out-play Bob Cameron, Harold Troy (C) and Ray Williams.

Preparing for Rare Cranbrook Exhibit

Speculating on a plug for the Cranbrook Institute of Science exhibition, "Stories of Hair and Fur," which opens Oct. 1 are William Tarkington, James Carmel and Mrs. Philip Carlin of the institute staff. A portion of the exhibition shows how rabbit hair is made into felt hats. Rare furs will be modeled on Saturday afternoon at 3, to which non-members are invited.

Among the exhibits which will continue through October are a sea otter, the world's coldest pelt, a fur garment 3500 years old, the largest and smallest furbearers and live chinchillas, mink and foxes. Visitors are welcome at the Cranbrook Institute of Science daily between 2 and 5.

Live chinchillas, mutation minks and platinum foxes will vie for attention with modern garments at the opening of the new exhibition, "Stories in Hair and Fur."

Saturday afternoon at Cranbrook Institute of Science, Lone Pine road.

The exhibition is said to be the first attempt to show at one time fur in all its aspects—biological, historical and commercial. Animals shown range from a shrew weighing no more than anewdime to a giant Alaskan bear largest of fur bearers.

Garments date from a fragment of sewn gazelle skin from an Egyptian tomb of 3500 years ago and General Custer's buffalo coat to the newest capes of starlight mink and chinchilla. Even the industries of the brush and felt industries are treated in this comprehensive exhibition.

Special Feature As an introductory panel, la belle "What to do with feathered hair" puts it, "Put it on the head, wear it, step on it, sleep on it, play with it." Illustrating such a challenge are many objects including a toupee, a coat, a wool rug, a hair mattress and a violin bow.

As a special feature for the opening of the exhibit will be a style parade of modern and historic fur garments, scheduled for 2:00 p.m., Saturday and a showing of ranch bred fur animals in the currently most fashionable colors.

The exhibition, open from 2:00-5:00 p.m., will be at Cranbrook through October and will then be placed in national circulation. Admission is free.

Metropolitan Y Program Launches Big Fall Program

John D. Maynard general chairman of the Detroit YMCA Metropolitan membership drive, will be at the speakers' table when the kick-off banquet is held Thursday evening, Oct. 6. The 12 branches of the Detroit Y, including Birmingham, will open the fall season at this time. The various branches will also report on their membership campaigns to date.

The main speaker of the evening will be Eugene E. Bennett, general secretary of the international committee and of the national council of the YMCAs who has recently returned from Europe.

While there, he visited "DP" YMCA camps, spent considerable time in Germany and France, interviewed and came into personal contact with many of the 11,000,000 expellees and refugees.

He also acquired first hand knowledge of the operation of the Marshall plan, had interviews with a number of outstanding European leaders and came to significant conclusions regarding the future relations of men throughout the world.

Historical Documents His confidential letters and reports on the trip can be considered as historical documents.

Previous to 1937 Bennett spent 26 years in China and served as secretary to the national YMCA movement of that country.

His subject will be "Youth in Tomorrow's World." The meeting is open to the public and starts at 6:30 p.m. Birmingham will be represented by members of the committee of management of the local Y and personnel of the eight teams now canvassing in the current membership drive.

Mrs. Edna B. Lacey of Bloomfield will announce the opening on Oct. 1, of her new Studio Shop. The shop will be located in the Fox andounds Inn building on Woodward avenue.

Mrs. Lacey said she will specialize in a famous line of china-ware, and will also include many gift items.

For her opening special feature she will display a group of pictures painted by a New York artist who is a member of the Cooperative Portrait Painters of New York.

Clawson Host to College's Advisory Group Next Monday

Students of Baldwin high school and their parents are invited to attend the AAUW-sponsored college advisory night at Clawson high school on Thursday, Oct. 13. The meeting will be opened at 7:30, when representatives of about 50 colleges will be present to discuss the various fields of education and the opportunities offered with prospective students and their parents.

Mrs. C. W. Darling of the Baldwin staff, said that many state colleges, as well as those located in other parts of the country, would have representatives present. They will be prepared to answer inquiries concerning co-educational colleges, liberal arts courses or those of highly specialized fields.

"This is a splendid chance for our students who plan to attend college, and most Birmingham students do, to learn first hand what they may expect from the various institutions of higher learning," Mrs. Darling said.

Y Membership Drive Progress Reported

At a meeting held in the Downtown branch of the Detroit YMCA headed by John Maynard of 919 Mohegan avenue, Harold Kalbfleisch, serving with Oscar Peterson as co-chairman of the Birmingham YMCA's annual membership drive, stated, "With continued cooperation from the community and the renewal of Y memberships on the part of our many friends, I am quite certain that the Birmingham branch will achieve its goal of 450 members and increase its budget by $1,500 in cash."

Kalbfleisch reported a total of 84 members signed to date with the next canvassers' report scheduled for Monday, Oct. 3 at the YMCA offices at 144 West Maple street.

At this meeting, additional prospect cards and "word" kits will be passed out and instructions on "How To Do It" will be given new workers. Refreshments will be served.

Commissioners Ask for More Time on Rubbish Ordinance

City commissioners want more time to look over the city's rubbish ordinance before they discuss any changes in it. The commission was scheduled to discuss it Monday night, but commissioners agreed among themselves that it was too big a job to tackle in just the week they had had it to look over.

They decided they might hold a special informal meeting during the next week to talk over proposed changes before bringing it up for formal action some Monday evening.
