Youngsters Stage Play
 "The Dancing Dolls" was presented Saturday afternoon by a group of little girls in the playroom of the John Palmer home on Middlebelt road. The children had planned the program all by themselves and invited the parents and friends to come and see the results of their work.
 The play was written and directed by Sue Carey. Background scenery had been made and hand-made programs were distributed. A poor mother and her small daughter, played by Lynn Granger and Janet Woodman, found that they had dolls who could dance.
 Jill Morton, Carmen Sutton, Karen Smith and Sandra Sweet were the dolls. Sybil Hampton was the woman who came to buy them, but being unhappy because of the sale they no longer would dance. The newspaper reporter was played by Elaine Palmer who made the necessary arrangements for a happy ending.
 Costumes for the little actresses were made by Elaine and Sue. The clever scenery complete even to ruffled curtains at the make-believe windows was done by Lynn, Sue and Elaine.

 The money earned from the admission has been contributed to the cancer fund. The audience was amazed at the detailed planning and the finished performance of these youngsters who are all in the lower grades at school.
