

City's Boys and Girls Tell Santa What They Want For Christmas

Here are the last of the letters from Birmingham children for this year.

These letters are from the boys and girls attending the smaller schools around the area, from the little folks who are not yet going to school and from those who were absent when the rest of their class wrote.

It's been fun hearing from all of you again this year and before I leave I'd like to wish every one of you, along with your mothers and fathers the Merriest Christmas and Happest New Year you ever had.

ADDING CHARM TO Your Home By Bill Wieland

INFORMAL ELEGANCE The complications and demands of modern living have done away with much of the formality in home decoration that was so popular in the past... but not with the elegance. Today we have a new concept of elegance... and we achieve it in a variety of ways. Sometimes with the exciting use of color, others with color more restrained; with dramatic effects heightened by contrast; by light and shade, or by an interplay of changing high lights. The room sketched above is dramatic in its simplicity, soft dove grey walls give emphasis to the stark white mantel. Mahogany book shelves lining two walls add contrast and color richness and give the room modern feeling of compact spaciousness. Fireside chair, upholstered in pale grey
