Children's Story Hour at Library Starts on Saturday

A series of story hours for children will be started at the Baldwin public library Saturday morning. The story period will be held each week from 10:30 to 11 o'clock.

Opening the series will be "Yankee Doodle". The story of our country's first song, written by Opal Wheeler, was selected since two of the country's greatest presidents, Washington and Lincoln, are honored this month.

The second story will be "How Old Stormalong Captured Moby Dick." Written by Irwin Shapiro, this tale of a sailor who turned cowboy in order to overcome the Great White Whale will furnish excitement for the younger citizens.

Miss Audrey Kennedy, who came to Baldwin library from Pittsburgh some weeks ago as children's librarian, will conduct the periods. Future dates will have tales of American folk heroes, along with several special stories for the spring holidays.

Miss Kennedy said that the current selections were most suitable for children from six to nine years.

Get Carload Prices on printing paper

The practice of printers is to estimate the paper stock on the basis of how much is used by the customer for each job. Although he may buy in larger quantities, the charge is figured on the price he would pay for the quantity he would buy for your particular job.

We have had this policy, too. But now we are going to pass our savings on to you. With new arrangements we've made with suppliers, we are getting carload prices for group purchasing of mixed sizes and weights. (This prevailed before the war.) Under our new program of estimating you now can enjoy savings up to 60% of the paper costs formerly charged.

If you're interested in learning more about these savings, we'll be glad to have a representative call on you and explain further.
