Committees Named for Annual Adams PTA Frolic

"Plans for the annual Adams school Family Frolic, to be held Friday, Feb. 3, are well under way," says Mrs. Robert Sneed, general chairman. "The programs have been determined and arranged and both chairmen are busy collecting material."

The Frolic, sponsored by the Adams PTA, has become an annual institution in the school district, attended by students, their families and friends. Even families whose children have graduated from Adams return to renew old associations.

"This is another Adams school project," explains Paul Carter, principal, "which brings child, school and family closer together. Schools, today, can be much more than buildings where the three R's are crammed into resisting minds."

"Adams school, with its active PTA organization, is a community center. As our children, teachers and parents work and play together we learn from one another. A community of interest and friendliness exists here, which, I believe, reflects directly in the high degree of learning interest which our students show."

All Contribute
"As we all contribute time and effort to the Frolic we will enjoy its success. Mrs. Frieling, PTA president, and I are particularly anxious to welcome the new parents to our school family."

Every Adams pupil already carried home a list of booths to which his parents may contribute baked goods, books, art objects, etc.
