GIRL SCOUTS

At the annual meeting of the Birmingham Girl Scout Council, held last Friday, reports of each committee were given which indicate a growth in every branch of the Council's activities.

Registrar Mrs. Ross Wagner's report showed 674 girls registered as Scouts, 336 being Brownies and 338 Intermediates. There are now 198 adults engaged in Girl Scout work, as leaders of troops, troop committee members, or Board members.

There are 40 troops, being evenly divided between Brownie and Intermediate Scout troops, and a well-rounded program has been followed in each troop, with highlights of the past year being: the Girl Scout Fair in April which drew an attendance of 1500; the father and daughter dinner in May, with its square dances; the annual Scout Penny Drive on June 4 with its "mille of pennies" amounting to $250 for the upkeep of the Scout cabin at Springdale Park; one service project of 140 garments made and donated to the annual gathering of the Needlework Guild.

New Members
New members elected to the Girl Scout board of directors by the Council were Mrs. Paul Wilson, who will assume the direction of the finance committee; Mrs. George Hoke, in charge of program; and Mrs. T. A. Lewis, member at large. Re-elected to the board were: Mrs. Cassius Miller, Mrs. James Abbott, Mrs. Carl Rice, Mrs. Wm. Jackson and Mrs. Harold Chalk.

Elected to the membership nominating committee were: Mrs. Newman Halvorson, Mrs. Robert Kerley, Mrs. Ford Ritner and Mrs. Robert Yingling.

At a luncheon meeting of the retiring and new boards, the following officers were elected for the year: president, Mrs. Cassius Miller, vice-president, Mrs. James Abbott; secretary, Mrs. Lee Hanson; treasurer, Mrs. James Cox.

Truth Told

The Line Is Busy

BY DOBIS E. KUS

Line up, gourmet-gals and give some attention to the tasty tale of Mrs. P. F. Deneau of Hanna street, a recipe reaper of no little repute. For just recently she was awarded first prize in an "old-fashioned" recipe contest held by a Detroit radio program. What copied successfully with the competition was her formula for sugar cookies.

This is the second such favored flavor for which Mrs. Deneau has been acclaimed. The first being some 14 years ago when she was awarded top honors for her vegetable soup recipe in a local culinary contest. All of which makes the madam a "must" for this column.

The sugar cookies held the phenomenal age of 75 years—the recipe having been handed down to Mrs. Deneau from her grandmother. From the reports on their popularity, it would seem that they will remain with the family for many years to come, too.

Sugar Cookies
1 cup creamery butter
1/2 cup home rendered lard
or 2 cups margarine in place of butter and lard
1/2 cup heavy sour-cream
between 4 and 5 cups of pastry flour
2 cups granulated sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon baking soda

Mix ingredients together and place in refrigerator over night. Roll out, cut quite thin and about 4 inches across. Sprinkle sugar and a raisin on top. (Mrs. Deneau sometimes adds a little lemon rind and juice.) Bake at 400 temperature until brown.

Now comes the vegetable soup—a large serving recipe and very succulent sounding. Use a beef knuckle soup bone and boil two hours with two quarts of water. Add 1 quart stewed tomatoes; one cup grated carrots; 1 cup grated cabbage; 1 cup grated raw potatoes; 1/2 cup onion; 1 teaspoon celery seed; four bay leaves; salt and pepper to taste and stew for two more hours. (Mrs. Deneau runs all the vegetables through a food chopper.)

Tempting, isn't it? And simple too. What's extra special attractive is that the soup can be put into two-quart cans and stored in the refrigerator, handy for immediate heating. Try it sometime.

Alice in Wonderland is Next Children's Theatre Production

"Alice in Wonderland," the gay, roving dream story and it's sequel that has leaped into the folklore of the world, will be presented by the Wayne University Children's Theatre on Thursday, Jan. 27, in the Birmingham Theatre under the auspices of the Children's Theatre Group of A.A.W.

The one and one-half hour performance will be the Alice Charming's version of "Alice in Wonderland" which will portray the story with lots of action in rhyme and verse. There will be a dress rehearsal at MacKenzie high school but this will be the premiere performance and will be played to some 40,000 children in the Detroit area this season.

Leonard Leon, assistant professor and director of the Wayne University Children's Theatre, stated that the plays produced by this group serve as a training program and public service. The productions are under the supervision of the speech department and actual work is executed by the students. "Alice in Wonderland" will be one of their most elaborate and expensive shows with many special effects.

Mrs. Palmer, graduate student at Wayne University, will direct the performance. All costumes were designed by Barbara Granite and the scenery by T. O. Andrus. The Children's Theatre Group requests that inquiries be directed to Mrs. Anthony J. Daley or Mrs. John A. Gilray, Jr., and not to the Birmingham Theatre. Lost and found articles may be located by calling Mrs. Gilray.

Local Junior League Unit Seeks Patrons

The Birmingham unit of the Junior League of Detroit has recently sent letters to a group of women in the Birmingham area requesting them to be patrons for the "Bargain Box" opened several months ago at 579 East Maple here.

With each letter a bag was sent for the purpose of collecting runnimg such as books, records, toys, jewelry, household articles, bric-a-brac or clothing which the patron could donate or have sold on a consignment basis.

A member of the Junior League will call on each of these prospective patronesses between now and Jan. 31 to inquire if they will help in filling the bags throughout the year.

The "Bargain Box", staffed by Junior League volunteers, is open

Wednesday through Saturday from nine until five o'clock. Proceeds from this shop will be used to aid charitable organizations in this community.

Mrs. Edward D. Ferguson is chairman of the "Box" with Mrs. William S. James, chairman of the rummage committee, assisted by Mrs. George C. Booth, Mrs. James Sidway, Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, Jr., Mrs. Everett E. Fisher and Mrs. Paul McKenney.

"Front Page" Opens Tomorrow Evening

The Bidgeade Players will present "Front Page" in their playhouse tomorrow, Jan. 27 and 28. The thespians' theatre is located on West Ten Mile road.

Localities participating in the fast moving story of a newspaperman's life include Mr. and Mrs. George S. Dixon and their son, David, Robert Gans and Charles Davidson.
