IN THE WAKE OF A TWISTER—A death-dealing tornado struck Rhinelander, Wis., killing two and injuring 30. In the wake of the violent wind storm, which caused untold damage, lay shambled barns and homes grim reminders of nature's fury.

Burroughs Promotes Wm. C. Richardson

William C. Richardson, 1492 Hennepin, has been appointed supervisor of direct mail production of Burroughs Adding Machine Company. W. C. Spruill, advertising manager, announced today.

Under Richardson's direction will be the preparation and printing of advertising and promotional literature by the company's products and services.

Richardson has been engaged in advertising activities in the Detroit area for the past 12 years, and was associated with Bull Dog Electric Products before joining Burroughs in 1948.

For the last two years he has been a member of the company's direct mail production department.

A message written 76 years ago on an Arctic expedition was recently delivered to the addressee, Secretary of the Navy.

Frame Proposes Planning Group
For Southfield

A planning commission for Southfield township was proposed by Supervisor D. F. Frame at the township board meeting Tuesday evening. Most board members commented favorably on the suggestion and the plan was tabled until the next meeting July 25.

Frame said the commission should be composed of seven "public spirited citizens" who have sufficient time to study the needs of the township and make recommendations for the future.

ONE MEMBER pointed out that problems are increasing as the population continues to grow and the supervisor and board haven't sufficient time to handle all planning and legislative matters.

A restriction on the use of firearms on the MacDonald property on Northwest corner of 11 Mile road was made by the board after several residents of that area complained about the noise and danger from target practice in that location.

THE SEVEN-ACRE tract of land has been used by a private gun club for several years.

Estimated costs were announced for special assessment districts for improving certain streets in the Magnolia subdivision and D. J. Healy's Golfhurst subdivision. The costs will be advertised and another hearing will be held at the next board meeting.

A special assessment district for street improvement in Berkshire Valley and Berkshire Grove was also created.

Two Churches Here Ransacked Sunday;
Fingerprints, Blood Found by Police

Two local churches were broken into in similar fashion Sunday night but police report nothing missing, even though both church offices were ransacked.

Birmingham police have samples of blood-stained, fingerprinted glass found near a broken basement window at the Lutheran church, 1300 W. Maple avenue.

On the same night, someone broke into and entered through a basement window the Townsite Community church at 11 1/2 Mile and Southfield roads in Southfield. Mrs. Theodora Wuggazer, Jr., wife of the Lutheran pastor, told police the church janitor discovered the broken window and dried blood on Saturday. The police were not told at this time.

MRS. WUGGAZER said she "is convinced whoever broke the window returned Sunday night looking for the collection money."

Officer William Green said no fingerprints were found inside the church to compare with those on the glass. He said most of the items handled were paper and other materials that do not retain clear impressions.

From the quantity of blood found near the window, police believe the person who broke the window was badly cut on either the hand or arm.

Mrs. Wuggazer said there were several small, glass "birthday banks" in plain sight in her husband's office. The banks contained loose change but evidently had not been tampered with.

JUST ENOUGH books had been pulled from the shelves in the office to "make it obvious that someone wanted to see if the collection money was behind them," Mrs. Wuggazer said.

She also added that her husband's desk had been "thoroughly" searched.

Inspector Donald Menzies reported that the basement storage room in the Townsite church had also been forcibly entered.

The prowler had then apparently gone up to the main floor of the church and searched the pastor's office. The combination and handle of a safe in an adjoining room were knocked off, Menzies said.

The safe was a converted clothes closet with a metal door. When the removal of the combination and handle failed to open it, the person went into another room and chopped a hole into the safe from the back.

MENZIES SAID the safe "didn't have a thing in it, though." He said that no fingerprints had been found in the Townsite church.

Green said that "so many churches in Detroit and this area had been broken into lately that no definite connection between these two incidents can be made."

Electrical science reports that age-old headaches in glass manufacture have been hurdled and that highest-quality glass now can be produced with electric heat. The melting process is described as similar to the simple workings of an electric range or small heater.
