Pontiac Kiwanis Club Guests at Local Meet

Members of the Pontiac Kiwanis club were guests of the local group Tuesday evening at an inter-club meeting. Robert Weber, district governor, was the guest speaker.

At a recent meeting Watt Wallace, head of the Baptist children's home at West 13 Mile and Greenfield, spoke on the work this home has done during the past 25 years.

Only three children were cared for when the organization came into being. There are 27 resident children with an additional 60 in foster homes at present.

During the 25 years, the home has placed more than 1,500 children in foster homes in the area, Wallace showed.

At the next meeting, July 25, F. H. Blackmore from the Bendix research laboratory will be the speaker.

A New Zealand task force has started drilling into the ground in an attempt to harness underground volcanic steam as a power source. No doubt they wish to step-up water pressure in local lava-tories.

CARPETINGS of WOOL

... Cherished as Ever

Ever since power-driven carpet looms were invented and perfected by Americans back in the mid to late 1800's wool carpetings have been cherished in homes all over the country.

TODAY —

Nearly 100% of the carpet wools are imported. Good carpet wools are getting exceedingly scarce.
