Battle Creek Is Setting for Nuptials of Localite

Before an altar flanked by Woodwardia trees and white candleabra, Miss Marilyn Rebecca Kay became the bride of Paul Taylor Gahn, last Saturday afternoon.

The bride is the daughter of

Mrs. Paul T. Gahn

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Kay of Battle Creek, Mich., and he is the son of Mrs. Heber Paul Gahn of Maryland boulevard and the late Mr. Gahn.

The Rev. H. Dan Brady read the double ring ceremony in the First Presbyterian Church of Battle Creek.

The bride's gown was fashioned of white lace over satin, cut with an off shoulder neckline and long sleeves. Her finger-ring veil fell from a braided satin coronet and she carried white orchids on a satin Bible.

Wearing a pink gown cut with fitted bodice, full skirt and tiny ruffles, Mrs. George Kay, Jr., of Battle Creek served as matron-of-honor. Her headdress of pink nylon mesh was trimmed with pink and cubonnet streamers and she carried an old fashioned nosegay on a pink fan.

The bridesmaids, Miss Constance Brewer of Battle Creek; Mrs. Robert Whiting of Detroit; Mrs. William Ludwig of Detroit and Miss Virginia Bristol of Battle Creek, wore pink gowns and headresses similar to that of the honor matron and carried floral nosegays on pink fans.

Frank Watts of Birmingham acted as best man and the ushers were George Kay, Jr. of Battle Creek; Robert Kuehne of Battle Creek; Robert Whiting, William Ludwig and Hugh Frenchie, all of Detroit.

For her daughter's wedding and reception in the church parlors, Mrs. Kay chose a camellia pink crepe gown with matching accessories and wore an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Gahn selected a crushed rose-colored gown with matching accessories and orchid corsage. The bride wore a navy blue silk dress and white linen jacket with matching accessories for her wedding trip to northern Michigan.
