AAUW Support Goes To Vital Issues On November Ballot

Proper treatment for mental patients is one of the greatest needs in the state, Rabbi Benedict Glazer said to a Birmingham AAUW meeting Tuesday.

President of the Wayne county chapter of the Michigan Society for Mental Health, Dr. Glazer said that such sufficient funds would make it possible to eliminate the "snake pits" in which mental patients are treated. He said many of them were so limited in facilities they merely represented places of confinement for patients.

The AAUW announces itself as strongly supporting Proposal 2 on the Nov. 7 ballot. The proposal would provide funds to treat mental patients.

The organization also asks local farmers and organizations to support United Nations Day Oct. 24. A special public meeting is planned by the Ruth Shain International Relations class for the day.

The membership is lending its support to the League of Women Voters-sponsored political rally to be held here Nov. 2.

Stop Selling America Short, Speaker Asks

At any period in this nation's development, there could be found persons who believed the country had changed so much it was heading downhill. Henry Broderick, director of the Detroit Historical Society and Historical Museum, told Birmingham Rotarians at their Monday luncheon.

"We have these people today as we have always had their counterparts in the past—but we should not let their fears influence the rest of us into believing it is true," he warned.

A STUDY OF American history will show clearly that the American way of life has worked, is working and will continue to work if one believes in it, Brown declared.

If we are realistic, we can see definitely how we have moved ahead—and that is the test. America has worked. Let's stop selling it short."

High Twelve Learns About Zoo's Problems

Experiences of the escaped baboons from the Detroit Zoological Park in Royal Oak were among the topics discussed by Frank G. McInnis, zoo director, before the Birmingham High Twelve club Monday.

McInnis also told of the efforts made at the zoo to simulate, as near as possible, the natural habitat of the animals kept there. His talk included the general problems of the keepers and workers as they go about their daily job of keeping the animals in top shape.
