

Don Large Tells Of Music Career

By Barbara Stradiner.
Among the speakers at careers day at Baldwin was Don Large, assistant music director of WJL and well known for his youth chorus there.

Speaking to a group about careers in the music profession, Large said the first step is a complete mastery of one's instrument, and in the case of a vocalist, the ability to read music.

IN RADIO AND television there are many behind-the-scenes jobs for those with music training or for which music is valuable. Arranging and copying music are two well paid jobs. Music librarians and script writers also find a musical background helpful.

For those who feel they are ready to embark upon their career he suggested that they register with the Musician's Union since all positions with dance bands, radio and television require membership. Employers will often contact the union as readily as a booking agency when looking for musicians.

Although a college education is not necessary for the entertainment field of music, Large suggested training in a field that does require it, such as teaching. In this day of television the number of years which an entertainer may

IT'S "BOTTOM OF THE barrel year" for Coach Lloyd Cooper's track squad. Approximately 70 students turned out this season, the smallest squad in years. Art Fink, Ronnie Phillips, Chuck Tyson, Carver Hendrix, and Joe Sachman are a few of the squad's best.

TENNIS IS UNDERWAY with Coach Harold Newcomb boasting a veteran squad, with only Bill Wilkinson and Phil Savage missing. Roger Beebe and George Bosworth should give Birmingham an other champion doubles team.

AL FREMODY was selected captain of the Maples golf team. "Big Al" is the only senior holding two varsity letters for golf. Only four boys receive a letter each year and Al has also won two letters in swimming. Stu Scheffel, a junior, is the only other returning letterman.

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL furnished an upset Friday when homeroom 101 defeated homeroom 10 by a score 28-22. A trophy was awarded to the victors. Finalist five consisting of Ronnie Phillips, John Sheldon, Pete Gryson, Chuck Tyson and Chuck Wood.

Band at Baldwin Prepares for State Music Festival

By Ronnie Phillips

Long hard hours are being put in by the Birmingham band and its director, Arnold Berndt, in preparation for the state band and orchestra festival April 21 at Ann Arbor.

To obtain a high rating at a state festival, details in all the music must be worked out to perfection. The festival is not a competition among school bands as judging is done on comparison of performance with perfection.

Besides the festival work, the band is preparing music for its annual spring concert May 8.

Photos must be submitted by noon each Friday to insure publication the following Thursday.

Cast of Baldwin High School Spring Play Meets for Penny Fine Party

By JOE KUBACKA

The old epigram "Save your pennies for a rainy day" proved wise again last Wednesday night when the entire cast of the Baldwin spring play, "Cheaper by the Dozen," met at the home of Miss Ruth Hull, director, for the penny fine party.

The party has long been the tradition of all Baldwin thespians. Its purpose is to ascertain whether or not they have completely learned their lines. In the process of going through the play, any actor who forgets or mispicks his line must contribute a penny to a penalty bank. Of course, the idea is to keep the flow of pennies as low as possible.

THE MORTALITY RATE on lines was extremely high this time. The cast succeeded in accumulating over 70 cents, an all-time high. At first, while the pennies tinkled into the bank continuously, director Miss Ruth Hull gave vent to her wrath by such utterances as "Kids, this is terrible!" and "Let's get on the ball."

However, as the play wore on, the fines became less numerous. George Bosworth, who portrays the irascible father, engaged Margaret Ireland, who plays his oldest daughter, Ann, in a lingual speed contest. Both said their lines with such rapidity that they frequently had to halt to give the rest of the

Typing Contest Cuts Errors in Baldwin Classes

By Peg Hallock

"You will have seven minutes in which to complete this problem. Ready, get set, go!" To anyone walking past the typing room this is what would be heard. Just before Easter vacation, Mrs. Joan Larson, typing instructor, conducted a typing contest to encourage errors rather than encourage high speeds at the expense of accuracy.

CLASSES ARE SPLIT into two teams of 12 each which challenge each other. After the exercise is completed, each team member goes to the front of the room and reads his number of errors in colored tacks.

A gold tuck tack means no errors while red, silver, blue, and black are used for one, two, three, and four errors.

At the end of each week the team with the most errors treats the winning team to ice cream cones. The first team consists of Margaret and Elizabeth Carter, Mary Jane Delahanty, John Dolza, Gail Greig, Joanne Greiner, Sheila Kelley, Sally Miller, Virginia Robertson, Ned Sharples, Rich Spedeman, and Sally Wright.

Five Birmingham Youths Appear on WJL Radio Show

Five Birmingham students appeared on WJL's radio program "Youth Looks at Youth" Monday, to discuss the question, "Does religion have meaning for high school students?" Members of the panel were Lester Colbert, Bill Akens, Marilyn Hart, George Bosworth, and Margaret Elliott, all student leaders in Baldwin's senior class. They were selected and directed by Miss Ruth Hull, speech instructor. The program was sponsored in cooperation with the YMCA.

The vision and hearing tests were given this week at the school. A committee of mothers headed by Mrs. Philip Emrich, assisted by Mrs. Reginald Smith, Mrs. Edward Smith, Mrs. John Parkins, Mrs. Donald Sellen, Mrs. Betty Baker and Mrs. Mahlon Sutton met at the school Friday morning with Miss Frances Curtis, the school nurse for training, and helped with the tests.

THE KINDERGARTEN made the invitations for the PTA meeting. The meeting was devoted to art and the invitations were in the form of a palette with spots of color on it. The second grade has been studying birds and has made clay bluebirds, cardinals and robins.

The fourth graders are making a health bulletin board in connection with the science unit. The sixth grade is studying about electricity and will set up a village with street lights and a telegraph sending station.

Twenty-five students and Miss Votey have formed a garden club. They held their first meeting Thursday morning and saw strips of gardens and discussed activities for the club and garden planning.
