NEXT TIME YOU cuss out the greedy parking meter, take heart. Just think of the hard work that penny of yours is causing. First the policeman on the uptown beat has to go around, rain, hail or shine, and collect the blamed things. Then, twice a week, someone in the city treasurer's office has the delightful task of getting them ready for the bank. Mrs. Jack Walker holds a sack of coins already wrapped as she watches the automatic counting and wrapping machine grinding out another batch. The machine handles thousands of pennies and nickels every week, and while it is a whole lot better than doing the job by hand, it still takes a great deal of time. If you like the sensation of being ornery once in a while, remember these behind the scene jobs that you, Mr. and Mrs. Motorist, are creating.
