

Robert Livesay Weds Margaret Gardner

At 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon Margaret Louise Gardner exchanged marriage vows with Robert Louis Livesay, son of Mr. and Mrs. David E. Livesay of Elgin, Ill.

Rev. Lawrence W. Pearson read the ceremony in Christ Church Cranbrook.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Gardner of Aspen road, wore a gown of white embroidered organdy. It featured an off-shoulder neckline with a scalloped edge, plain yoke and short sleeves. She wore organdy mitts and a cap of matching organdy with a scalloped brim to which was attached a finger-tip veil. She carried an arrangement of fleur d'amour.

MRS. ROBERT L. LIVESAY

Mrs. Clark E. Pardee, Jr., was her sister's matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Frank Berdan and Mrs. John Canavan both of Detroit. Their gowns were white embroidered organdy with short sleeves and shades of cornflowers in their hair. The matron flower blue. They wore short gloves and wreaths of corn flowers in their hair. The matron of honor carried white daisies and delphinium and the bridesmaids carried yellow daisies and delphinium.

Dr. Jackson E. Livesay served his brother as best man, Donald H. Leschmier, P. Craig Livesay, another brother, Clark Pardee, Jr. and Herbert H. Gardner, Jr. brother of the bride, seated the guests.

MRS. GARDNER selected for her daughter's wedding, a gown of heather mauve lace and chiffon. Her tulle hat matched her gown and a corsage of rubrum lilies completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Livesay chose lace and chiffon for her gown in a silver grey shade to which she pinned a corsage of rubrum lilies.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS country club was the scene of the reception after which the young couple departed for a honeymoon, destination undisclosed. The bride was wearing a cocoa brown suit of shantung with white linen collar and cuffs. Her accessories were white lined and her corsage was of brown orchids.

When they return from their honeymoon the Livesays will reside in Birmingham.

Scrap Yarn Can Be Used In Red Cross Projects

Mrs. E. K. Leavenworth, 1825 Pine, knitting chairman for the Oakland county chapter, American Red Cross, said this week that scrap yarn was needed badly.

"Women who are working on afghans for veteran hospitals are nearly out of material," she said. "Scrap yarn, of any color or weight is needed. All kinds of odds and ends can be used and may be sent directly to the county headquarters on West Huron street in Pontiac."
