

Happy, indeed, are married folks who, when the temptation to let the world fly comes to them, say little or nothing. Most such "stunts" begin over trifles... and trifles are not big enough in human relations to warrant straining them to the breaking point.

Mulholland's

Men's and Boys' Department

DRIVING HAS BEEN pretty tough around Birmingham this summer as the city launched the largest street paving and repair program in its history. To some, it seemed they faced a barricade every time they turned a corner. However, those days will soon be ended as the continued fair weather speeds the huge program to completion. Above, workmen put the finishing touches on the resurfacing project for Ruffner, at the intersection of Adams. The street has been resurfaced and the narrow, sharp intersection widened for safer and smoother driving.

... IN THE NORTHEAST section, where a great deal of work is being done, Pembroke (looking west) shows one-half of its new street completed.

... OVER IN THE southwest part of the city, one looks south on the South Bates project, and finds that save for a few finishing touches, the project is completed and soon all barricades will be removed and the street open for regular traffic.
