

How comparatively easy it is for many of us to grasp the meaning of a good rule of conduct? We know that the use of Good is a guarantee against the violation of evil... but how difficult it often is to commit to action what we commit to mere memory.

Mary Kay Smith Married on Feb. 3

In the First Presbyterian church of Birmingham, before an altar banked with white flowers, Miss Mary Kay Smith spoke her vows to Mr. Glen C. Neilson on Saturday, Feb. 3, at 4:30 p.m. Rev. W. Glen Harris read the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was made on princess lines, of imported chantilly lace with nylon tulle panels over satin. Tiny pearls were embroidered on the collar and on the points of the long sleeves. Her fingertip veil was caught in a cap of chantilly lace edged with tiny pearls. Her bouquet was of stephanotis, camellias and trailing ivy.

THE BRIDES SISTER, Mrs. Wilton A. Doane of Philadelphia, was her sister's matron of honor. Her gown of orchid tissue faille was fashioned with a portrait neckline, fitted bodice and full skirt. Her crownless hat and mitts matched her gown. She carried a bouquet of rubrum lilies and trailing ivy.

Dr. A. G. Neilson served his son as best man. The ushers were Edward Hutcheson and Robert Engelhard both of Oak Park, Ill. Mrs. Smith wore for her daughter's wedding a sheer wool dress and matching hat in a Parma violet shade. Her corsage was of rubrum lilies.

THE MOTHER of the bridegroom chose a crepe dress of muted brown and beige tones. With this she wore a corsage of green orchids.

Following a buffet supper at the Sheraton, the newlyweds departed on a honeymoon trip to Florida. The new Mrs. Neilson chose a suit of coral with navy accessories to wear for traveling.

The parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Irvin R. Smith of Buckingham road, Birmingham and Dr. and Mrs. Andrew G. Neilson of Des Plaines, Ill.

Photos must be submitted by noon each Friday to insure publication the following Thursday.
