Business Women Present Gift to Girl Scout Fund

A year's service work by the Birmingham Business Women's club was brought to a successful climax recently when Audrey Kemp, president, presented the Birmingham Girl Scout board of directors with a check for over $77 dollars.

The idea of assisting the Girl Scouts in their camping program was conceived during the presidency of Jane Wooton Herick, and by a unanimous vote became the club's principal objective during the past year. Bake sales add a rummage sale were the largest events staged by the Business Women's club to benefit its Girl Scout fund.

PRIZE MONEY ordinarily used by the bridge, canasta and knitting social groups was also donated to increase the total sum, and a Girl Scout bank was on hand at each dinner meeting to receive small change from members.

In commenting on this gift, of the Business Women's club, the new president, Mrs. J. Stuart Cobb, said, "It was a completely cooperative undertaking and I feel we received as much satisfaction from our endeavors for the Girl Scouts as they will from using our gift to enlarge their camping program."

MRS. JAMES ABBOTT, newly elected president of the Birmingham Girl Scout council, announced that this generous gift has been placed in a special account and will be used to further the camping program available to the 109 Brownies and Girl Scouts of the Birmingham area.

Necessary repairs to the present Girl Scout cabin at Springdale Park will keep it the ever popular outdoor haunt, and because of the continued growth of Birmingham, the contemplated increased camping program will be made possible by this gift.
