Barbara Bee Becomes Bride Of Robert George Reed III

Blush nylon tulle with chantilly lace fashioned the bridal gown of Barbara Jane Bee for her Saturday afternoon wedding to Robert George Reed III. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Bee of Hardsdale road, wore a cap of chantilly lace crowned with seed pearls which held her three quarter length veil of nylon tulle. She carried a cascade bouquet of blush pink roses and orchids.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert George Reed III of Hanover, Mass. Rev. A. L. Bechtel read the 3 o'clock service in Kirk in the Hills.

THE ATTENDANTS, Barbara Jean Wilson, maid of honor and bridesmaids Jean Reed, Betty Ann Reed, Paula Gerber and Mrs. Andrew Smith, were dressed in ballerina gowns of ice-blue organza over taffeta. The gowns were nipped in at the waist with white organza sashes. Their Duchesse of Windsor veils were white as were their own accessories. The pastel theme was completed with blush pink roses in cascade arrangements.

Frederick Y. Briscoe was best man and the guests were seated by William J. Lynn, Richard I. Jones, William Knight and James K. Huntington, Jr. For the reception held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Bee on Opdyke road, the bride's mother wore powder blue taffeta studded with rhinestones and a

RICHARD DAVIES WHO PLAYS Nigel Hood in "Mr. Peabody and the Mermaid" is a native of Utah, but has played in theaters from coast. Dick studied drama at Brigham Young University where he won a scholarship to the Bliss Hayden Theater in Hollywood, Calif. Dick also had a three year contract with RKO and Universal. He has done radio and television work in California but since coming to Detroit has busied himself at Will-O-Way and making commercial films. This show opened at Will-O-Way Playhouse on Tuesday, July 17, for a two week run. The story revolves around a mermaid, played by Betty Early, brought home from a fishing trip by Mr. Peabody. She completely captivates all the eligible men around and proceeds in a completely naive way to break up three romances. Since no one is aware that she is a mermaid, the women are extremely jealous and the men extremely infatuated.
