

"I Like It Here" At Will-O-Way

Social Briefs

ROBERT BRYSON Appears in current Will-O-Way production.

"I Like It Here" a comedy by A. B. Shifrin, opened at Will-O-Way Playhouse Tuesday for two weeks. Robert Bryson, a well-known favorite with playhouse audiences has been active at Will-O-Way for the past three years. He has taken parts in "Room Service", "Salute Bevara" and played the lead as Elwood P. Dowd in "Honey" last season.

The plot of this play revolves around a garden called Willie Kringle, played by Frederick E. Morris who comes into the Merryweather home and begins to make a few changes. Mr. Merryweather who is nagged by a harassed wife, begins to have a little hope of peace in his home due to the presence of Willie Kringle.

Laura Merryweather, the daughter has an opportunity to straighten out her romantic troubles with the help of Kringle. In other words the Merryweather home is completely taken over by Willie Kringle.

Amusing incidents continue to happen throughout the play. Gertrude James plays Mrs. Merryweather with Richard Davies as her husband. Also in the cast are Betty Early as the confused daughter, Gerald Harrington and Robert Bryson as the romantic suitors and Ralph Bourke, Janet Baker and Paul Price.

Reservations may be made by calling the box office which opens at 7 o'clock.
