

Leonard Urges Fourth of July Traffic Safety

With a better than average Memorial Day traffic experience on record, State Police Commissioner Donald S. Leonard urges all Michigan motorists to exercise added precautions again during the Fourth of July period.

"Last year," Leonard said, "there was an average of eight traffic deaths daily for five holiday periods. During the recent Memorial Day period there was an average of about four, three on Memorial Day, seven the previous day and three the day following.

"During the four-day weekend of the Fourth, last year 38 persons were killed on Michigan highways, the highest toll for that holiday on record. There were, however, only eight the previous year, showing that careful driving does save lives."

not as good as it could have been. The Fourth can be much safer.

"The calendar is also helping to save lives this year. The Fourth, as did Memorial Day, comes on a mid-week day and many persons will not be taking long motor trips such as they do when the holiday extends into a weekend. Nevertheless, traffic will be very heavy and hazardous.

"State Police patrols will be increased over the holiday, but every driver must cooperate by exercising added precautions to insure maximum highway safety.

"Whether you plan a short drive or a long trip, take it easy and enjoy a safe and sane holiday."

Red Sox Take Little League Baseball Lead

After the first week of play in Birmingham's newly formed Little League baseball organization the Red Sox are leading with two victories and no defeats.

In second place with two wins and one loss is the Yanks, while the Indians have one victory and two defeats. The Tigers have suffered two defeats against no wins.

These results include games played through Monday evening, June 25.

A TIGHT PITCHING duel between Art Weeber and Larry Hower featured Monday evening's Yanks-Indians game. Although collecting only two hits, the Yanks won 2-1, behind Weeber's four hit performance.

With two men out and one on third in the final frame, Weeber was relieved by Bob Vincent who struck out the last man, painting.

Results of other games played the first week are: Red Sox 4, Tigers 2; Yanks 5, Indians 4; Red Sox 6, Yanks 1; and Indians 13, Tigers 1.

Beginning Monday, July 2, all games will be played on the league's new field on the Lutheran Church property on West Maple, near Charranons in Michigan.

Little League President Eldon Aker said the field is nearing completion due to the volunteer help of many persons.

LUMBER FOR the dugouts was furnished by Bill Bush, while J. O'Connor did the painting. In addition, Joe Moery, Thornton and Gpoms and Seymour Blakely donated piping for the water fountain.

Dearborn Motors Corp. leveled the field and constructed a driveway.

League officials are now looking for a volunteer who will maintain the field during the season. Work will include dragging the diamond and keeping the grounds in condition for the games.

Any person wishing to help with this work can contact Aker at 315 South Glenhurst.

Games for next week are: Thursday, June 28, Yanks-Red Sox, Pieter field; Monday July 2, Yanks-Tigers, Lutheran field; Tuesday, July 3, Indians-Red Sox, Lutheran field; Thursday, July 5, Red Sox-Indians, Lutheran field.

All games get underway at 6:30. Driveway leading to the new field is located just west of the Lutheran Church.

Zoning Board Asked To Clarify New Zoning Amendment

Southfield township zoning board will be asked to clarify several terms before the township board approves a new amendment which would ban old houses from being moved into the township.

The zoning board recently passed an ordinance which states, "No used, ready-built buildings or structures, whole or in sections, shall hereafter be moved into the township. This does not include trailers located in established trailer camps."

The board asked that the zoning board clarify the meaning of "used," "ready built buildings," and "structures, whole or in sections."

Members felt that the amendment might possibly apply to prefabricated homes unless the terms were clarified.

Wit, Humor Often Shown in Epitaphs, Odd Hobby Reveals

Thoughts expressed on some cemetery markers are not always confined to the sad sentiments of the bereaved nor factual data on the deceased. In many cases humor or philosophy make their appearance, carved into ageless stone for all to read.

Collecting the sentiments expressed is the hobby of Andrew Merrill, former member of the Birmingham Rotary club, who was their guest speaker Monday noon.

Merrill, now a member of Royal Oak Rotary, described many of the markers he has come across in his search for the unusual.

He is manager of the Cloverhill Park cemetery on 14 Mile road.

Midge Murray, Veteran Golf Pro, Dies in Hospital

Frank A. (Midge) Murray, 57, veteran golf pro, died at the Dearborn Veterans hospital late Tuesday after an illness of four years. His home was at 671 S. Bates.

A native of New York City, Mr. Murray began his career in golf more than 30 years ago. When the Oakland Hills country club opened in 1919, he became assistant to Walter Hagen.

About a year later Mr. Murray went to Owosso, but returned to Birmingham to become head pro at the Birmingham golf club from 1927 to 1937.

For some time he operated a semi-public course at Elizabeth lake and later became area representative for the Macgregor sporting goods company.

DURING HIS career Mr. Murray taught thousands of persons in this area how to play golf. He became best known to the golfing public through his official capacity at all major tournaments in the state.

Mr. Murray was born on Jan. 10, 1894 and during World War I served in the navy. Three years ago a severe circulatory ailment necessitated the amputation of both legs.

On March 29, 1922, he married Laura Brooks in West Palm Beach. She survives with three sons, Robert of Sacramento, Calif., and Richard and Howard at home.

MR. MURRAY IS also survived by three brothers, Joseph J., and Robert A., of Waltham, Mass., the Rev. Arthur Murray of Boston and a sister, Miss Tressa Murray, also of Waltham.

The body is at the Bailey funeral home pending final arrangements. Burial will be made in Greenwood cemetery, Birmingham.
