News About GIRL SCOUTS

Sixty girl scouts and leaders from Port Huron met at the Community House on Friday, May 11, where they were greeted by Mrs. James F. Abbott, president of the Birmingham Girl Scout Council. The visitors then left for a field trip to Cranbrook.

At the meeting of the Birmingham Girl Scout Council on May 11, Mrs. George Hoke, program chairman, announced that plans have been completed for the annual Girl Scout Father and Daughter Dinner to be held on June 1 at the Community House.

Troop 26, Fierce School
The Girl Scouts in Troop 26 visited the ceramic studio of Elizabeth Lyons in Detroit on May 4. Miss Lyons showed them how molds were poured and placed in kilns. After a complete tour of her studio she served refreshments and presented each girl with a tiny angel which she had made. Accompanying the Scouts were Mrs. James Keene, Mrs. J. R. Fortune, Jr., and Mrs. Harold Restonier. Susan Brundage is scribe.

Troop 38, Adams School
At a recent meeting of Troop 38, two movies were shown: "First Step in First Aid," and "Scrub Game," a lesson in hygiene. The films were run by Dick Calhoun, sixth grader at Adams School. Following the movies, the treat was served by Linda Janke. Mrs. F. P. Warrick, leader of Troop 38, accompanied these youngsters to the Girl Scout Fair, Joanne Brown, Barbara Carson, Linda Janke, Barbara Jones, Caroline Warrick, Barbara McKee, Jean Stinson, Joan Scaturri and Yvonne Dexter.

Troop 25, Walnut Lake
Scribe Elizabeth Schaele reports that the Girl Scouts in Troop 25 held a fashion show. The judges were Mrs. Hanson and Mrs. Nyberg, and Kay Graber was the winner. The Scouts in this troop recently learned the correct method of making a bed.

"Little Gallery" Names Anniversary Exhibition, May 21

Works of a well known group of Cleveland painters will be featured at the first anniversary show of Peggy deSalvo's "Little Gallery," 216 East Maple.

Carl Gaertner, John Teyral, Paul Travis, Victor Schreckengost, Paul Riba, Peter Dubuciewicz, Marco deMarco and Kay Dora Cass are among the artists to be represented.

Lawrence Schuckelher, artist and director of the Cleveland Institute of Art will be present with the other Clevelanders who are coming to the private showing on Sunday, May 20.

Three local newcomers will represent Birmingham artists. Mary King and Jack Larson, ceramicist and weaver at Cranbrook and John Risley, teacher of sculpture at Cranbrook.

Jewelry will be shown by Philip Morton of the art staff at the University of Minnesota; Betty Cooke of Baltimore and Milton Caravano of San Francisco. The anniversary exhibit will start Monday, May 21 and continue through June 30.

Deadline for society club news is noon Monday.

Cleveland Museum Honors Cranbrook Student of Art

"PIETA" PURCHASED BY MUSEUM

32d annual May show which is open to artists of Cleveland only. Three of his creations, as a group, were chosen for 1st awards in the class sculpture for stone and metal. Two others won 3rd award in the ceramic sculpture class.

One of his creations, "Pieta" has been purchased by the museum for its own collection. The height of this statue is eight inches. The material used is terra cotta, and is classified as ceramic sculpture.

"THIS PIECE OF THE Blessed Virgin holding Christ? Joe explains, "was an experiment in form. The story here is a tremendous one as most of the episodes in Christ's life were and will see. How to say something that many well known artists and sculptors had done in their own great way down through time. Frightening, yet a challenge to one's talents and imagination."

Today, all of the problems an artist picks to work out in a fresh new way and yet keep the essential story, are a challenge.

I am happy about this piece but realize it is only a step in closer unity between the material and the spiritual."

LAST YEAR, Joe was commissioned by the Saint Rose of Lima Catholic Church in Houston, Texas to do a statue in terra cotta, to complete the exterior of this most modern edifice. Since that time the artist, for designing this building, was awarded first prize in the state by the American Institute of Architecture.

Cranbrook Museum will show some of his works in the annual summer show.

Joe is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Balone of Cleveland, Ohio. At present he is the guest of Mr. James Allen Eaton, 276 Brown street.
