Laidlaw Resigns As Southfield Building Insp.

Charging lack of cooperation by the township supervisor, Southfield township building inspector Clarence Laidlaw resigned effective immediately at Tuesday evening's board meeting.

A letter from Laidlaw announcing his resignation was read and the board accepted it unanimously.

Township Clerk Mrs. Fannie Adams then moved that Frank Gidley be appointed building inspector pro-tem. Motion was approved by a 5-0 vote. Board members Urban Woodhouse and Thomas Langan were not present.

LAIDLAW WAS appointed to the position Feb. 13, after Gidley was dismissed as building inspector Jan. 9. At the January meeting, a special four-man committee of board members recommended that Gidley should be replaced and either a "qualified graduate engineer or duly registered engineer" appointed.

This committee was formed after the board had received several complaints from the Men's Club, Inc. of the township concerning alleged violations of the building ordinance by the department.

The board indicated that Gidley was being appointed building inspector pro-tem until it can rescind a motion made at the January 9 meeting concerning the appointment of a graduate or registered engineer.

In his letter of resignation, Laidlaw stated there was "lack of an adequate staff competent to make construction inspections."

LAIDLAW HAS previously stated that the plumbing and electrical inspectors were not responsible to him, and he pointed out in addition 85% of the inspection work is for building and he had to handle that himself.

The former building inspector said he had turned in a report to Supervisor William Roeser April 9, pointing out "alarming conditions apparent in the building department." He stated the supervisor never referred this report to the board.

Roeser said Tuesday that he "has bent over backwards to cooperate with Laidlaw." He pointed out that he didn't feel the matter in the report was urgent and because there has been so much business at recent township board meetings, he has delayed submitting the report.

Laidlaw concluded his statement of resignation by stating, "Under these conditions, no reputable engineer will submit and no building department can survive."

Laidlaw was appointed while former supervisor D. P. Frame was in office.
