the chapel of Christ Church Cranbrook to repeat their vows before the Rev. Lawrence Pearson.

Only the immediate families were present when the bride came down the aisle in a ballroom-length gown of white imported lace over satin with a basque bodice and long, fitted sleeves. The nylon net neckline was delicately edged with tiny seed pearls in a scalloped design.
Her three-tiered elbow length veil fell from a satin half-cap of lace lattice work. A white orchid lay on top of her white prayer book.
NANCY ELLEN Walser was her sister's only attendant. She wore a ballerina length gown of golden brocade, with a full skirt flowing from a gathered bodice. Her matching shade net cloche cap was rimmed with velvet, and she carried bronze noons.
Lloyd Cassidy was the best man. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Walser wore a sheer wool beaded gown of cocoa brown, and a corsage of bronze roses.
The groom's mother, Mrs. Nelson, wore beaded bluish grey crepe and chose roses for her flowers.

A RECEPTION followed in the Suffield road home of the bride's parents. For their motor trip through Indiana, the bride selected a sheer wool dressmaker suit of royal blue with black accessories.
After the first of December the newlyweds will make their home in Newark, Ohio.
