BITS OF BIRMINGHAM

Employees at Dearborn Motors went for the Torch Drive in a big way—so big, in fact, that 100 per cent of the employees participated and subscribed $15,976.68, or 102 per cent of their goal. The company came in with $18,000, which was 20 per cent more than it gave last year.

A former Birmingham resident and at one time an Eccentric staff member, had an article published in this month's issue of Quill.

national magazine for journalists. The writer is Stoddard White, who is now employed by the Detroit News and the article is about United States Senator Blair Moody.

On Westwood drive, residents have taken steps to protect their children from speeding cars. Signs have been erected near the Maple and Pine intersections stating, "Drive slowly 41 children playing."

Apparently Birmingham's recent weather was too much for the swan which arrived at Quanton lake a couple of weeks ago. A check made by this wanderer Saturday morning came up with the information that the swan has moved on. According to the lady who supplied this information, residents of the area appreciated this extra touch of grace and beauty and sincerely hope the bird will return, possibly to make Quanton its permanent home.

Kids, get your scrapbooks ready. The Birmingham National Bank this week is starting a 30-week series of advertisements, in cartoon form, that traces the history of banking and money from the time the barter method of exchange gave way to "currency" around 3,000 B. C. This wanderer has taken an advance peek at the series and finds it most interesting.

Pictures of five former Birmingham city commissioners are ready for hanging on the commission room walls. The photos are of former Mayors Don Bell, Bruce G. Bobb, and Chad Ritchie and ex-commissioners Garland Tait and C. Theron Van Dusen.

'Cross-Question' Debating Shown To Rotary Club

A new type of debating, called the "cross-question system", was demonstrated by a University of Michigan team to Birmingham Rotarians at their Monday noon luncheon.

Two new Rotarians, George W. Arnold, Jr., and Otis Thompson, were introduced to the club by member Louis Hascall, and inducted by acting president Victor Ulrich.

Next week's speaker will be the state's auditor general, John B. Martin, Jr.

The U of M team, composed of Dick La Barge, Ned Simon, Malcolm Campbell and James Olds, debated the question: "Resolved, That All American Citizens Be Subject to Conscription into Essential Services During Time of War."
Team members were accompanied by Debating Coach Fred Kolch.

Mrs. Albert Kahn Gives Memorial to Library In Honor of Husband

The gifts of cabinets for the storage of phonograph records at Baldwin library has been announced by Miss Jeanne Lloyd. The cabinets were the gift of Mrs. Albert Kahn, 520 Aspen.

"Her gift of records, in memory of her husband, was the start of our collection," Miss Lloyd said. "Since that time other records have been given to us and some purchased through the regular channels until today we have more than four thousand listed. These new cabinets make proper storage possible for all of them."

Miss Lloyd also announced a special display of children's books at the library, which will continue through next week. It has been arranged as a part of the National Book Week program.

"We have set the display up as a shopping aid for parents who need help in selecting current books for Christmas giving," Miss Lloyd reported.

Members of the library board will meet in the director's room this evening.

Poppleton Scout Units Plan November Affairs

Cub Scouts of Poppleton school will meet at the Leach home on Spoor street at 8 o'clock this evening. Additional work on their puppets will make up the evening activities.
On Nov. 28, Brownies and Girl Scouts will hold their investiture ceremony, when awards and badges will be presented. The meeting will be held at the school.

Wing Lake MTA Plans Open House for Nov. 28
An open house meeting is planned by the Mothers and Teachers association of Wing Lake school for Nov. 28. A social hour and refreshments from 8 to 9 p.m. will open the program.

Mrs. Geneva Forslund will explain the school's marking system and report cards. A brief talk on accident prevention and how to correct the traffic situation at the school will be given by Arthur Dickerson.
The newly finished school rooms will be open for inspection and samples of classroom work will be shown.
