Ever talk to a telephone man's wife?

Here's an excerpt from a little talk given before telephone people by Mrs. William O. Tetro of Grand Rapids, wife of a Michigan Bell lineman:
 "I can remember when Bill started work at Michigan Bell. When he'd come home, I'd ask him what he did that day, and it seemed he'd always reply, 'Learned how to climb a pole safely, how to lift safely, or how to work on a ladder safely.' No matter what he was doing, the word SAFETY was always there. I think Bill had worked for Bell for at least three months before I knew that his foreman, Mr. Handricks', first name was Glenn. All I ever heard was 'Safety' Handricks.

 "Isn't it a wonderful feeling of security to know that our husbands have been taught the safe way of doing every job?"

No job is so important and no service is so urgent that we cannot take time to perform our work safely—Bell System Safety Code
