

There probably isn't a human environment on this earth today that is completely over-flowing with unexpressed joy. Which is proof that the march of mankind takes too many detours from the "straight and narrow path." The fresh taste of life are poisonous.

THE LARGER FAMILY

375 Lake Park Drive

in search today of a home of four or five bedrooms, is faced with a really serious problem. The high cost of present day construction places the cost of a new five-bedroom home in the $50,000 to $65,000 bracket. That, along with the cost of rearing and educating three or four children, makes it a very difficult situation for anyone today.

The fine residence pictured above offers the solution. Built in 1927, by Carl Reichle, of Detroit, this house is as sound today as when it was built. Only the best materials were used in its construction. It is interesting to note that hardly a plaster crack can be found in the house. No matter how hard you try, there's not a wiggle in the handsome stair railing, nor a squeak in the fine oak floors.

On the first floor, there are a large living room, library, dining room, spacious hall, breakfast room, lavatory and kitchen. On the second floor, there are four family bedrooms and three baths, plus a maid's room and bath. Also, there is a service stairway from the kitchen to the second floor. Plus a large floored attic with stairway.

The heat is vapor steam with an oil burner. There is a 1,000 gallon fuel oil tank buried underground.

The location is the best in town. Drive out and look over the street. You'll be impressed.

Only $32,500! Shown week days by appointment. Open Sunday 2:00 to 5:00.
