Church Worker Tells Of German Problems

By ALICE E. MORGAN

An increasing concern is felt in the United States, Great Britain and among certain people of Germany about the steady rise in power of Germany's "new Hitler," Otto Ernst Remer, according to Miss Jane Williams, who returned from that country last week.

Miss Williams, guest speaker for the World Community Day program on Friday, sponsored by the Birmingham Council of the Church Women, said that thousands of embittered German youth are rallying around his standard which is alarmingly that of Adolf Hitler.

She has spent three and one-half months on the European continent and in Africa, sent there by the Youth Group of the Presbyterian church. Her work in Europe was mainly with young people and general conditions as they are erecting the youth of the nation.

"The young people—and the old—do not want another war," she said, "but are being pushed into it."

"BOYS AND GIRLS of school age, in particular, are finding themselves in a very difficult position. They are unable to attend school, get work or any social life unless they are members of certain specified groups. In spite of this, there are many who are holding out."

"Actually, they are without help, and the ones who should be helping them are the most, for they are the leaders. The Christian Church is supporting them, so far as possible, and more and more of the young people are turning to it."

"My work in Europe was mainly through the church, but it was possible to have many other contacts and learn many sides to the general picture. It's improved, since I was there four years ago, but it is still bad."

MISS WILLIAMS said that restoration of certain sections had progressed remarkably since her visit in 1947, but that in spite of that had been done, housing conditions were still woefully inadequate. Berlin is among the worst of the sections, with thousands of homeless and thousands of refugees added to the Ruhr area, once dismantled and now being rebuilt, she described as one of the worst parts of Europe physically and socially.

"The people are bewildered. One day they are told to take the 'new life' and the next, with renitization the new note, they are expected to build it up again. They just don't know what to do."

The German concept of the American way of life is not quite grown up, she said. They do not consider us old and experienced enough as an example of our motives. They want to trust us and rely on us, but aren't sure they can.

"THERE IS one false impression I'd like to clear up for Birmingham people," she said. "In this country one hears the story that in Germany, and the other war countries, there is a lack of food and clothing for all. This is not true. There is food and clothing, but the people cannot have it for the simple reason there isn't enough money."

"Based on German monetary standards today, a pound of coffee would cost four dollars. A scarf I bought would cost a German worker nine dollars. It was nine marks—but I could get four marks for an American dollar."

"For the tourist with plenty of American dollars to spend there is plenty of food. For the German, with a family to support and German marks to spend, there is not. Inflation has been terrible and like inflation anywhere else the working people are suffering."

SHE MENTIONED, too, the restrictions between the Eastern zone under Russian authority, and the Western zone, under the guidance of the American occupational forces.

"The German people may not approve of much of our occupational practices, but they will admit it is much easier to live under our command than behind the Iron Curtain," she said.

Miss Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Williams of 430 Park street, returns to her office in New York City this week to her work on the "Church and World" program, sponsored by the Presbytery in this country.

Locals Hope to Break Grid Jinx Against Berkley

By STU SCHEIFELE

Sporting a record of six wins and one loss, the Birmingham football team entertains Berkley Friday night at Pierce field, trying to break the jinx which the Bears have exerted since the series started in 1948.

Although favored each time, the Maples have never beaten Berkley. Last year they absorbed a punishing defeat after losing pushed-off all over in the first half.

THIS SEASON, the Bears have a mediocre record of two wins four losses and two ties. However, they have a hard hitting offense from the Berkley formation. In their only start against one of the Maples' opponents, and in their first game they caught a 75 yard lock with Ferndale, whom the locals wallpapered 35-7 early in the season.

The Maples are fresh from an easy 35-0 win over Waterford in which they finally got their offense rolling again. They now have scored 151 points to the opponents' 6.
