SCAFFOLDS ARE NOT TO PLAY ON, local building association officials warn parents and children. While necessary for certain construction problems, scaffolds can be extremely dangerous if not properly used. In the above posed photo, the girl at the lower right might just board on top of her if it were loose or she lost her balance. The boy at left center is in danger of slipping off those supporting pipes he is standing on. A few inches further out and the boy at the top would unbalance the platform, slide off the end and plunge to the ground.

We Heard It Said By: T. LEDYARD BLAKEMAN, executive director of regional plan commission: "I am convinced that we can use wider spacing for shopping centers. It is not necessary that they be located in areas of large population. With so many automobiles in use, a shopping center can easily be located in outlying districts."

Visit Canadian Rockies
Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Parker of 14-Mile road, who left in August for the Canadian Rockies, have concluded their extensive tour, travelling to San Francisco by way of Denver, they went up the Pacific coast to Port Angeles, Wash., and ferried across to Victoria, Vancouver Island and then to Vancouver on the British Columbia mainland. From Vancouver they crossed the Canadian Rockies via North Bend to Banff and Lake Louise, then headed north 200 miles to Jasper Park Lodge, their headquarters for side trips.

Mr. Clark, on far enough from his Naval Air Reserve station in the Philippines, flew up to join his parents at Jasper Park and returned to Franklin with them. He left yesterday to return to duty.
