Don't Let Birmingham Become City X!

OBITUARY

Downtown Business District of City X, last surviving member of a family of City Downtown Business Districts, yesterday in the City of X, a one-time prominent member of the community.

He suffered an increasing paralysis due to the congestion of his main arteries of travel. Doctors worked over him with increasing vigor during the last days of his life but the disease had become so acute that little relief was possible. Injections of police regulations, parking meter pills and traffic plan treatments seemed to instill new life in this venerable old gentleman of the city. However, long term treatment and major surgery was necessary if the patient was to survive. Before the surgeons could agree upon the type of anesthetic, outlying shopping centers developed, complications of attractive parking space at the outlying shopping centers caused undue pressure on the competition and the patient died.

The ladies opposed the tree removal, even though the Oxford city fathers had approved the cutting to allow the street to be widened.

It Needs a Burial

Tired, weary, worn, and out-of-ideas practical enough to restore more tran-quility to both the domestic and inter-national scenes, the New-Fair Deal is more than ready for retirement and burial. It is time for the nation to have new heads and hands take over the na-tion's guidance.

This is not to say that everything done in the past 20 years in the U.S.A. was or is wrong; what was and is good, will

And among the things that MUST GO are graft and corruption in high places, the disappearance of "crony govern-ment", and lack of general public con-fidence in many of our leaders. Indeed, it is more than time for a change!

Tax Resentment

Ever-increasing is the public resent-ment against the ever-increasing taxes levied by the Truman administration and tes supporters in Congress.

People exclaim: "We don't mind paying necessary taxes to support necessary ing necessary taxes to support necessary functions of government, and to defend our country, but we do resent paying for extravagance, incompetency, and just plain predatory politics!"

Well, Folks, why not cease calling it "the federal government" and begin calling it what it really is: "New-Pair: Deal, Unlimited—A Private Political Monopolity"

From Our Point of View

- After many days of investigating Owen Lattimore, a U.S. Senate Committee announces that the "expert of Far Eastern affairs" who is presumed to have helped us to get into the Asiatic mess, is guilty of us to get into the Asiatic mess, is guity, and discourteous, etc." Well, if Lattimore is guilty of wrong-doing, and can be punished, why isn't it being done? Or has Secretary of State Acheson turned Secretary of State Acheson turned thumbs down on such harsh treatment?

Say what you will about Harry S. Truman . . . but the fact remains that he encouraged and aided in the flight of American values— all the way from dollars to ability and integrity in government.
- A good question to use on one of those quiz programs would be: "Can you tell me how many chairmen the Democratic National Committee has had in the past six years under Harry S. Truman?

- Every political party attracts all kinds of men and women, some good, some bad, the rest in-between. It is the job of the decent leaders in every party to see that the bad ones are kept from places of influence and trust. Otherwise the bad ones get their dirty fingers into the nasty "pro-fits" that come from bad government.
