Nuptial Mass Said Saturday At Duns Scotus

MRS. IVAN EDGAR GARSKE

Mary Jane Heberer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles William Heberer of Coral Gables road, became the bride of Ivan Edgar Garske in the Duns Scotus chapel Saturday morning.

The Rev. Sylvan Becker read the double-ring service at a ten o'clock nuptial Mass. The bride's gown of Chantilly lace was edged with satin and featured an illusion yoke and long lace sleeves.

Her fingertip-length veil was held by a band of satin pearls beaded with pearls. She carried rubrum lilies and gladioli.

HONOR MATRON Mrs. James L. Hay and bridesmaids Patricia Gignac and Patricia Heberer wore ballerina gowns of mauve and pink tulle with scalloped necklines and inverted pleats in the skirts.

Victor Garske was his brother's best man. Both are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Garske of Sunnet boulevard. Donald Robert Heberer and William Johnson ushered.

A wedding breakfast at Devon Gables followed the rites. The nuptials were honeymooning in Scotland. Mr. and Mrs. Garske will be in Royal Oak.

Mrs. W. R. Lane Taking MSC Course

EAST LANSING—Mrs. W. Raymond Lane, 185 Northlawn road, has been selected as one of the participants in a special course designed to promote the use of horticultural therapy.

The course is being given August 4-8 by the horticulture department at Michigan State College in cooperation with the continuing education service.

"Horticultural Therapy" is the process of teaching persons in hospitals, mental institutions or prisons to grow plants to occupy their time to aid in their rehabilitation. Occupational therapy personnel, physical therapy personnel, and voluntary social workers interested in therapy techniques will receive instructions on conducting these programs.

Society deadline is 3 p.m. each Tuesday.
