5 Ex-Cranbrook Students Honored At Harvard Univ.

Harry Hoey, headmaster of Cranbrook School, has been notified by Harvard University that three of the five alumni of the local school who received the degree of bachelor of arts this June were graduated with distinction. Lauren Frederic Otis, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hawley Otis, 32 Harbour Terrace, Bloomfield Hills, majored in architectural sciences, and received his degree magna cum laude (with great praise). The honor came on the heels of his election to Phi Beta Kappa honorary scholarship fraternity. Otis graduated cum laude (with praise) at the end of his four years at Cranbrook, and in his senior year won the Trinity College Award for combined citizenship and academic standing as well as the Morris P. Tilley Award for creative scholarship.

steed, Fla., who came to the school from Haiti and was outstanding in football, church work, dramatics and other activities. Both Zemon and Pennell were graduated cum laude at Cranbrook.

New Water Pump For Springdale

The city commission Monday night approved the purchase of a new water pump for Springdale Park to replace one that had served the park's sprinkling system for the past fifteen years and that had recently failed. The contract was awarded to the Deming Company of Detroit and the installation of this new pump will be the first step in connection with securing adequate sprinkling system for the park. The pump will be purchased from the Springdale Park fund at the cost of $1,015.50.

General news deadline is 4:30 p.m. each Tuesday.

HE WAS A senior prefect, member of the church cabinet, business manager of the dramatic organization Ergasterion, member of the glee club, and a letter man in soccer. Daniel Ellsberg of Highland Park, who also "made" Phi Beta Kappa at Harvard, was graduated summa cum laude (with highest praise). At Cranbrook, he graduated cum laude after distinguishing himself as a student, and in extracurricular activities, including music, debating and journalism. He won his grade's scholarship prize in every one of his five years at Cranbrook, and the scholarship medal in his senior year. The cap-sheaf of his career in prep school was the winning of the national Pepsi-Cola four-year college scholarship, being one of three winners out of 1,727 contestants. At graduation he was awarded an honorary Harvard National Scholarship.

ARTHUR M. HARTMAN, of Detroit, specializing in government, was graduated cum laude by Harvard. He was active on the annual, the Brook, and the Crane, the student newspaper, at Cranbrook School. The other Cranbrookians receiving Harvard's diploma were Stanley Alan Zemon, Detroit, who won letters in soccer and tennis at Cranbrook and was active in journalism, dramatics and rifle shooting; and Dudley Pennell, of Home-
