Red Cross Plans Special Course

Plans for a county-wide disaster training meeting for all registered nurses began to take shape at Oakland county chapter, American Red Cross, this week.

Mrs. LeRoy Vandevog of Bloomfield Hills, newly-appointed chairman of nursing services, is conferring with Henrietta Gronlid, nursing services consultant for the Red Cross midwestern area.

Mrs. Fernandez Rodriguez of Royal Oak is actually planning the meeting, scheduled for sometime this fall. The entire conference will be devoted to explaining the registered nurses' role if a natural or war-borne disaster should strike the area.

Mrs. Vandevog says the meeting will tie in with a drive to persuade more nurses to help with Red Cross volunteer programs. At present, some 150 of Oakland county's 1,400 registered nurses are enrolled as Red Cross volunteers.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT LEIDLIN
Married Saturday at Holy Name church

Bride Follows Sister Down Holy Name Aisle

Saturday morning, July 12, was chosen by Barbara Ann Geisler and Robert Mark Leidlin for their nuptials before the Rev. Richard T. Parrish in Holy Name Church.

Only three months have elapsed since Barbara's sister, Jane, repeated her vows with George E. Rogers at the same altar. Both are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. A. Jerome Geisler of Wing Lake.

Once again a time-honored family tradition was carried out when the bride and groom hurried out of church to a waiting landau drawn by two black horses. The rest of the bridal party rode to the Wing Lake home of the Geislers in a survey.

THE ENTIRE WEDDING party wore white for the eleven o'clock nuptial high Mass. The only contrasting shade was found in the pink roses carried by the attendants.

The floor-length satin bridal gown was designed and fashioned by the bride. It featured an Empire waistline, gathered bodice and scalloped neckline with long pointed sleeves of Chantilly lace. Her skirt was drawn up in folds giving a draped effect.

Her headpiece was covered with a fingertip veil of Chantilly lace, and the bride carried lilies-of-the-valley.

IN FULL-SKIRTED ankle-length dresses of embroidered white organza were maid of honor Dolores Geisler Ann Bronsing and junior bridesmaid Joanne Geisler.

The fitted waistlines of their gowns were emphasized with large satin sashes. Pink roses formed bouquets for their hair and nosegays bouquets.

Richard Leidlin came from Saginaw to be his brother's best man. Both are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Oren Leidlin of Saginaw. Jack Leidlin of Grand Rapids, Donald Perry and Jack Knox of Saginaw, and the bride's brother, Jerome Geisler, Jr., seated the guests.

MRS. GEISLER greeted guests at the reception, which followed at their Wing Lake home, wearing a floor-length gown of blue organza with pink accessories and a white corsage.

For her son's nuptials Mrs. Leidlin chose a dress of a star ruby shade with matching accessories and a white corsage.

The bride's going-away outfit was a pink bengaline dress trimmed in white and white accessories. After a two-week wedding trip to Mackinac Island and Indian River, the newlyweds will reside in Saginaw.

WE HEARD IT SAID BY—
MRS. ALEC PARNIE, 269 Wimbleson: "I have never seen a youngster so wrapped up in anything as my son was in the opening sessions of the Republican convention. He never left the television set the whole day but sat there taking in every word that was said. It's these children, twelve years old, and the teen-agers who are getting the most out of the convention telecasts. They are keenly interested in their government and have a quite astonishing amount of information on it already. To them, the convention workings are something really special."

Society deadline is 3 p.m. each Tuesday.
