Down to Earth
 By ALICE WESSELS BURLINGAME

FORGET THE BAD

Birmingham is a summertime vacation spot in the summertime isn't it?

Dale Carnegie says: "About 90 per cent of the things in our lives are right and about 10 per cent are wrong. If we want to be happy, by all we have to do is to concentrate on the 90 per cent and ignore the 10 per cent."

I feel just that way about gardening. To make a heaven on earth in your own yard gives you so much. The dividends are high in health, new friends, and there exists a challenge to keep unfolding the mysteries of new types of plants. The unpleasant part of gardening represents only a small part of the whole after you "put on those magic glasses" and see the potential of gardening as your hobby.

This week I rang the doorbell at the Robert Pierce home, 950 West Lincoln, and became acquainted with their well planned colonial front door garden. This home has a salt box style, has a center door, the trim and shutters are white, while the shutters are painted dark grey.

THIS STUNNING garden at the front door faces south and a weathered split rail fence provides the theme of the development. The fence is only about two feet high, extending over to the driveway with lamp post keynoting the approach. A climbing rose clings to the lamp post.

Purple and white petunias accent the other annuals planted along the front of the fence and inside along the walk. Red geraniums, varied colored snaps, and tall sinnias of many rose shades complete the picture.

This doorway has been pointed out to you to study if you have found yourself dissatisfied with your colonial front door. Their picture could only be reproduced with a south or east exposure, however.

Barbecue-garden houses are rarely found as a combination building and you will enjoy becoming acquainted with the E. M. Olsen barbecue-garden house at 18397 Warwick, Beverly Hills. The structure has two parts: a garden house 14 feet square and the barbecue which is 16 x 20 feet.

TOM TIEDE, 15-YEAR-OLD SON of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tiede, 4180 Maple, Bloomfield township, accepts a trophy from Fred Hayes, manager of the W. A. Collier company, for his part in the Metropolitan Detroit Regional Model plane contest. Tom qualified for the international finals to be held in Detroit, Aug. 20-25, by winning the 1/8 A stunt division. The Bloomfield Hills high school student is holding the plane he will pin his hopes on in the international. The contest is sponsored by the Chrysler Corporation, Eccentric Staff Photo.

Want Sidewalks To Be Completed

The proposed construction of sidewalks on Lincoln, between Southfield and the new high school, was reviewed by the city commission Monday night. At the present time the sidewalks are completed on both sides in some places, on just one side in some places, and in some places there are no sidewalks at all.

Because of the need of students traveling to and from the high school, City Engineer L. E. Gare hopes that the contract for the completion will be let in the next two weeks.

Gare also stated that some retaining walls might be needed from Arlington to Southfield. Commissioner Minor asked that the city manager give a full report on this matter, together with possible reasons why the entire project could not be completed by the time the school resumes fall classes.

General news deadline is 4:30 p.m. each Tuesday.
