

Parties in Full Swing For Kingswood Graduating Class

Graduating seniors at Kingswood School have hardly had a moment between putting away their textbooks and plunging into a round of parties.

Festivities got underway with the annual picnic on the Cranbrook grounds on June 4. The next event was a brunch at Bloomfield Hills Country Club, given by senior class members Barbara Barker and Ann Ward after baccalaureate services on June 8.

A long looked-forward-to affair is the Cranbrook Commencement dance for which the girls will don formal this evening.

TOMORROW'S SCHEDULE shows every minute taken, with the Kingswood faculty breakfast for seniors, a luncheon at Devon Gables hosted by Mary Lou Simons, Margery Tomlinson and Pat Umphrey, the annual Junior-Senior banquet, and Kingswood commencement formal.

Other June 13 events are Suki Reid's "blue-jean" party at her family's cottage and a steam-boat for out-of-town guests at the Gleggery Circle home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Blair Burleigh.

THE PACE FOR the next day slows down not one whit, with graduation ceremonies being held at Christ Church Cranbrook at three o'clock Saturday afternoon.

At six o'clock that evening Jane Philipp and Alex Von Schoeler have asked guests for dinner in the Philipp home. Janet McElatie's debut ball will get underway at eight-thirty at Oakland Hills Country Club.

After the dance the party-goers will troop to the Rochester home of Tricia Barden for a swimming party. Festivities will conclude with a 9 a.m. breakfast at the home of Margaret Armstrong.
